Minden council adopts new scheme of assessment

Anson, Hindon and Minden council has voted to adopt the new equalized assessment system being offered by the provincial government.

The effect the new equalized assessment will have on area residents was outlined by Paul Lindquist last Wednesday night.

Lindquist, area assessor from the regional assessment office in Lindsay, presented council with a computer printout which showed tax shifts created by the new assessment.

This new assessment system attempts to equalize assessment within property classes. Researchers have taken the 1978 market value of properties and using a calculated equalization factor, have equalized the assessments.

In the past, inequities have been present in the system since market values have been frozen since 1970.

Lindquist told council the assessment office needed a decision before October 31 if the new assessment were to be used for 1981, because of deadlines for printing material related to the new system.

The new assessment system will not change the overall tax base of the township, nor will it affect the township's apportionment to the county Board of Education or county council.

Lindquist said the system will be implemented in 1981 and the market value of property, the equalizing factor and the assessment will be printed on each individual tax bill.

The effect the system will have on individual properties is not available as yet.

"Some will go up, some will go down and some will remain the same," Lindquist told council.

Juveniles charged in library breakin

Two juveniles from Minden, aged 13 and 15, will appear in juvenile court in Lindsay to face charges of break, enter and theft after an incident Friday in which a quantity of cash and a cassette recorder were stolen from the Minden library.

The recorder and cash, valued at $105, have been recovered.

Damage in the breakin was estimated at $100.

It's only October but already the first snowfall has been recorded in the Highlands. This was the scene next to Head Lake Monday morning after snow fell throughout the night. Three area accidents were attributed to the snowfall, which had all but melted away by noon.

Tenders for block building rejected

Council agrees to log library

by Sue Cooper

A decision to accept a tender for a log building to house the new cultural centre raised a question of ethics if not legality at last week's Anson, Hindon and Minden council meeting.

Council accepted a tender from 1867 Confederation Log Homes, owned by Ron Wrightman, after four other tenders for the specified decorative cement block building had been opened.

During the meeting, Wrightman gave a presentation concerning his buildings and after an open discussion, council closed the meeting to discuss the matter further. A decision to accept the tender was made, but before the end of the meeting Wrightman's tender was accepted.

The new log building will cost $50,500. The other tenders which were difficult to compare to the Wrightman bid because of the difference in construction were Elstone Construction, $29,442 for materials and labour; Carnarvon Building Supplies, $17,729.52 for the materials; Don Campbell Contracting $31,669 for materials and labour, and Peterborough Lumber, $39,721.32 for materials and labour.

Council estimated it would cost approximately $12,000 to finish the concrete shells to the degree the log building would be finished. In the Wrightman bid, the inside walls will be finished with the construction of the six inch by 12 inch-log interior walls.

Bernie Davis, secretary for the Anson, Hindon and Minden ratepayers association questioned whether it was fair to other log builders who had not tendered since the specifications for the building called for a decorative block building.

Wrightman assured council it was legal to accept his tender although it might not be considered ethical when tenders had been called for the block shell.

Davis again questioned council if it might not be wise to get quotes from other log construction companies just to make sure the "taxpayer's money" was being spent wisely.

Reeve Sinc Nesbitt told Davis he had approached another log builder telling him he had the right to tender on the project as Wrightman did.

The Wrightman tender was Horseshoe flows low: report

A consultants' report has stated that the water in Horseshoe Lake is not stagnant but the flow is very low. Gord Crosby, representing Totten, Sims, Hubicki told council that it was not known what effect a larger culvert in the causeway to Shuyler's Island would have.

Problems arose earlier when representatives of the property owners on Shuyler's Island came before council claiming the water in the back channel on Horseshoe Lake (along Duck Lake Road) was becoming stagnant because of the restricted flow.

Stanhope hopefuls told cottagers want plowing

by Sue Cooper

Stanhope cottagers would pay the township to plow their roads in the winter, candidates in the upcoming municipal election were told at a meeting the candidates night in the township Saturday.

David Stirrett, president of the Maple Lake Property Owners Association, told prospective councillors that seasonal residents are not getting their fair share of the benefits for the taxes they pay.

He said cottagers cannot get into private roads in the winter because they are not plowed and added that lack of insurance is no excuse since insurance companies would write a policy to suit any case.

"Who owns most of the snow plow?" Stirrett asked.

Also in the wintertime, cottagers do not get the benefit of the fire department since the roads are not plowed to their properties, Stirrett said.

Elvin Johnson, incumbent councillor who acted on the fire department in the last term, said other departments do keep a snowmobile equipped with portable devices for similar emergencies. Johnson also said another possibility which has been discussed in the past is the purchase of a boat and motor that would allow firemen to travel to emergencies on water access properties.

However, if these vehicles were purchased a new bay would probably have to be added onto the fire department to provide storage area, the meeting was told.

The evening began with short speeches from members of council who had been acclaimed to their positions. Reeve Jim Harrison said his first two years as reeve of the township had been "challenging and rewarding."

He highlighted the activities of the two committees he had directly served on. He noted "major accomplishments" had been made in upgrading the road system and the Ontario Home Renewal Program was providing approximately $120,000 to help Stanhope residents to bring their homes up to a municipal standard. He said the program had been "most beneficial".

Important issues in the upcoming term in office will be the policies regarding the 66 foot original shoreline allowances and equalized assessment, he said.

Deputy-reeve Elgin Stouffer who was also returned to his position as deputy-reeve by acclamation took the opportunity to thank the township's permanent staff and the many volunteers who keep the township running smoothly.

"We have a dedicated lot of people in the township," he said.

The other acclaimed candidate present was Leroy Eager, incumbent school board trustee. Dorothy Kinsman was also acclaimed to the position but she was unable to attend the meeting because of a previous commitment.

Eager told the crowd that the Haliburton county system was the best system possible for an area this size. He pointed out that students attending community colleges after leaving the Haliburton County system were progressing well.

He promised to use "every dollar of your tax money to the best possible end."

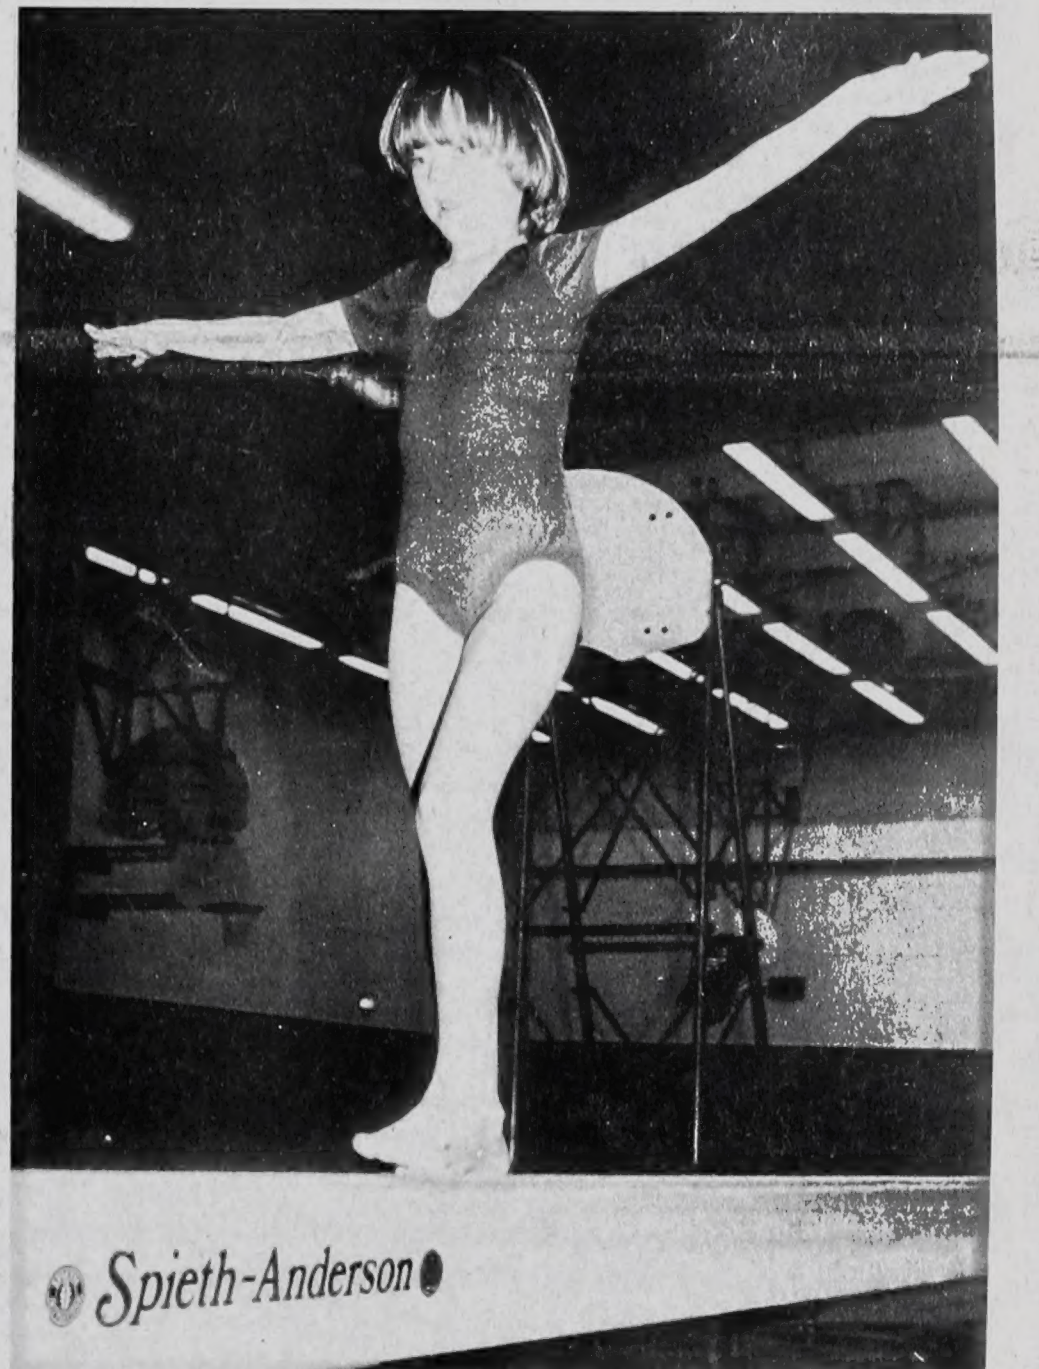

During the question period Eager was questioned on the possibility of moving the school's March break into February as had been suggested by Chamber of Commerce manager Bob Stinson at a meeting with Larry Grossman, minister of Industry and Tourism.

Eager said the possibility had been discussed only briefly at school board meetings in the past. He said that both Stanhope trustees would appreciate input on this matter and any other matter from parents.

Supposedly, moving the March break back into the winter months would increase the tourist business for that week.

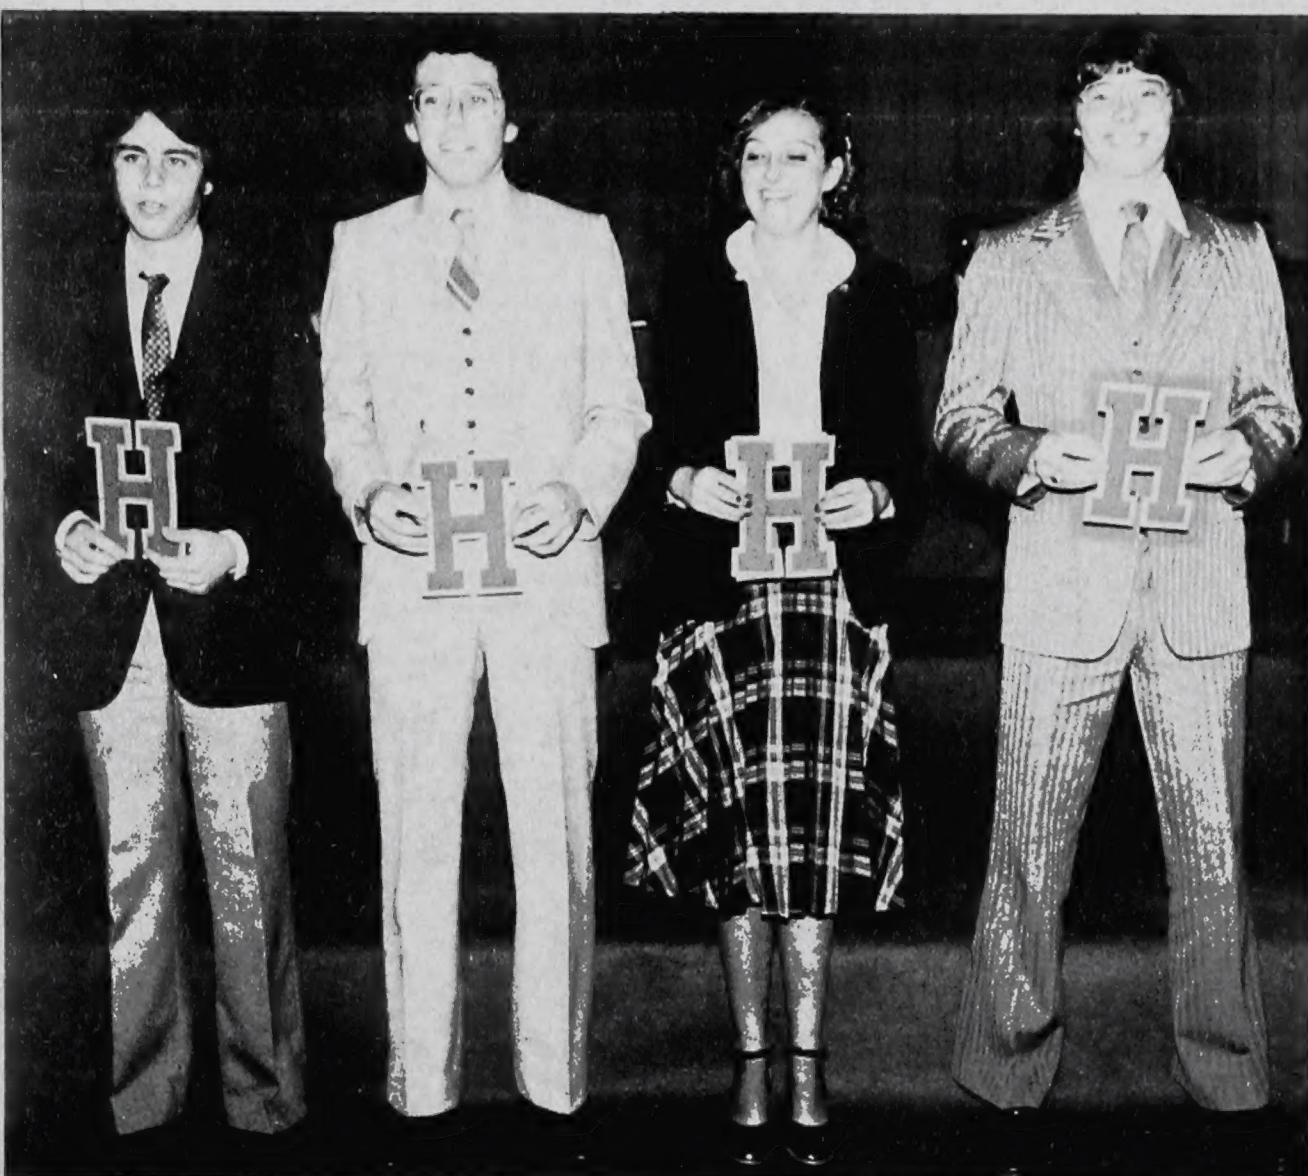

Eager said he didn't feel moving the break would be a

Students honoured at awards night

School letter winners

It was a night for honouring academic achievement at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Saturday, as scores of students received scholarships, awards and pins for their scholastic accomplishments.

The annual awards night got underway with a banquet in the school's cafeteria and concluded in the auditorium as parents and friends turned out to watch the awards presentations.

Following the invocation, a welcome from principal Brian Mosgrove and remarks from chairman M. Robertson Herlihey, honour bars and plaques were presented to students in years one through five.

Year 1 honours students were: Dana Collier, Esther Cooper, Jeffrey Dawson, Tim Deremo, Brian Donaher, Kelvin Donaldson, Karen Gillespie, Christine Hartin, Catherine Howe, Michele Levesque, Paul Mayo, Susan Milne, Victor Mitchell, Laura Pickett, Fredrick Roberts, Lynne Stamp, Karen Stewart, and Kristine Storey.

Year 2 students receiving two year honours pins were: Craig Bugden, Terry Crowe, Ann Everall, Gregg Feltham, Julie Heayn, Christopher Lodenquai, Katherine Mosgrove, Michael Pearsell, Michael Pearson, Nancy Shipley, Bruce White, James Wooden and Dawn Wright.

One year honours pins went to Jack Burk, Tammy Burroughs, Lyle Donaldson, Career week program to help senior students make choices

Deciding on a career is seldom easy, but senior students at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School should at least know more about the choices through a special three-day career awareness program Tuesday through Thursday next week.

The program, a first for the school, will be held in conjunction with Career Week across the country. Under the chairmanship of local resort operator and Tourism Ontario chairman Art Ward, the program will mine the resources of local service clubs, organizations, and individuals to tell students about dozens of career possibilities. Groups involved include Sir Sandford Fleming College, Haliburton and Minden Rotary Clubs, the Manpower Outreach office, the Chamber of Commerce, Minden Kinsmen, the Haliburton and District Lions Club, Legion branch 129, as well as a number of local and area business people and professionals.

The program will get underway Tuesday, November 4 with a keynote speaker.

Wednesday afternoon, beginning at 1:45 students in Grades 11, 12 and 13 will have the opportunity to hear their choice of two among 30 speakers discussing career possibilities in a host of fields, including veterinary medicine; pharmacy; horticulture; landscaping; golf course management and greenhouse operation; tourism; the lumber industry; banking and accounting; retail sales and marketing; wholesale operations; auto-body repairer; automobile mechanic; mining, drilling and blasting; radio and television; Canadian Armed Forces; Real estate and insurance; firefighting and rescue; law enforcement; psychology careers; nursing; construction; music and dance careers; secretarial careers, legal careers; social work occupations; education; art and fine arts; health careers; recreation; trucking; wood procession; and mechanical engineering fields.

On Thursday beginning at 2:25 p.m. students will be able to attend one of three panel discussions.

Panel one will discuss the similarities and differences between colleges and universities and the pros and cons of each. Taking part will be Dick Bowman, director of admissions at Trent University and Richard Pelletier who is in charge of student placement at Sir Sandford Fleming College.

Panel two will look at job market projections for the future of the provincial and national level. Taking part will be Bob Keating of Trent University, Dennis Good of Kimberly-Clarke, Toronto; and Don White of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

The third panel will examine hiring practices of large companies, and will feature representatives of Canadian General Electric in Peterborough, Ontario Hydro, and Union Carbide.

Students in Grades 12 and 13 will also have the option of spending the day touring Sir Sandford Fleming College, where speakers will outline various programs offered at the college.

The school's career week activities will wind up Thursday night at a special joint service club banquet at Haliburton Legion to which senior students have been invited.

Snow causes mishaps

The first snowfall of the season made driving conditions difficult early Monday morning and resulted in at least three minor mishaps.

In the most serious incident, a pickup truck rolled over near Loon Lake, after leaving Highway 121.

Minor mishaps involving single vehicles were also reported along Highway 503 near Bark Lake and along Highway 519 north of Haliburton.

Details of the accidents were not available.

Correction

An election overview story on the front page of last week's Echo stated incorrectly that Roger Woods topped the polls in the 1978 election for council seats in Stanhope. In fact, Harry Davis topped the polls, followed by Roger Woods.

The story also stated that school board trustee hopeful in Dysart et al Blanche Turner is co-ordinator of women's programs at Sir Sandford Fleming College's northern campus in Haliburton. While she formerly held that position, she is now employed by the college as a training consultant in career and industrial studies.

And lastly, Linda Beachli's name was inadvertently missed in the list of council hopefuls for Ward one in Dysart et al.

The Echo regrets the errors.

The Kennis Lake Cottagers Association has added $150 to the Haliburton ambulance service's 'Jaws of Life' fund. Robert McCann, right, presented the cheque to Haliburton ambulance supervisor Wayne Wood last Thursday.

apparently unsolicited by council and came about when Wrightman asked if he might have a chance to make a brief presentation on behalf of his manufactured log buildings.

"Wrightman took it upon himself to ask if he would be allowed to make a presentation of a log building, so that meant that anybody has that right, really, Nesbitt said in an interview on Monday. "On your contract you always say the lowest or any tender doesn't have to be accepted."

Doug Jones of the Ministry of Economics and Intergovernmental Affairs said in a telephone interview that there is no legal requirement for any council to call for tenders, although it is the accepted method in municipal businesses.

Like Nesbitt, Jones pointed out that council was protected by the phrase that no tender is necessarily accepted. This qualification leaves the doors open for councils to change their minds, Jones said.

"We hope they would have sought legal advice," Jones added.

But council apparently had not solicited any legal advice since the proposal had just come forward.

Nesbitt said he would have insisted on a log structure from the beginning if it had been obvious the prices would have been similar to the concrete structure.

Nesbitt met with the cultural centre committee on Friday evening and according to him they agreed on the new log concept. The idea had been toyed with in the seven or eight year planning stage.

"I'm going to sink or swim on it. I just think that's what we should have done and that's what we did," Nesbitt said.

According to Wrightman's tender the building could be constructed within 14 days of receiving the contract. The buildings are manufactured in his Bobcaygeon plant where the building will be completely constructed, dismantled and then reconstructed on the library site.

"I just think it's one of the greatest moves we've ever made," Nesbitt said.

ally to find out what effect a large culvert would have.

"There's no way he'd ever tamper with that road," without a highly skilled person to supervise the work, Nesbitt said.

He also pointed out that the MTC had refused to make any improvements to the road on the premise that it would be improving the water quality.

However, Nesbitt said council would approach the MTC representative once again to ask for some assistance.

The MTC must be involved as they provide the subsidy money for construction of township roads, Nesbitt explained.

He suggested Lucas might talk to the other property owners about the possibility of funding the project themselves since the MTC might not agree to allocate funding.

tremendous advantage but increasing the break to a two-week period might allow parents to spend more time with their children. He said if the break was extended to two weeks, teachers could attend their curriculum days for one of the weeks.

The next speaker after Eager was Ann Barker, who is running for the first time in a municipal election. Barker, partner in Don Barker Heating, gave the audience a brief history of herself. She was born in England and moved to Canada when she was 18. She later married her husband Don and they moved to Stanhope in 1974.

Barker said she has been active and interested in the growth of the township as well as in helping it overcome some of its problems.

Her only promise as a prospective council member was to be fair-Minden and to "do my best for the township".

Later in the question period Barker was asked by Stanhope Airport Committee chairman Stan Moore how she might help the committee.

Barker said she would first have to assess whether the airport was an asset to the township before making any decisions. She suggested the committee should try to influence visitors to stay at accommodations in the township before making reservations in other areas.

"I would like to see them stay in our community," she said. "It's great to support Minden and Haliburton, but what about Stanhope?" Barker said.

At this point, candidate Penny Googh suggested that the committee use the free services of public service television show to advertise their events. Although committee member Derk Rolfe said a film had been made of the fly-in, it apparently was on another channel.

"The Chamber of Commerce should be doing that (advertising the area)," Barker said. A round of applause and "Hear, hears" from both politicians and residents followed Barker's comment.

The next candidate to speak was Harry Davis, an incumbent who topped the polls in the last election.

"Someone of honesty and integrity" should serve on council Davis told the audience. He pointed out that attendance at all meetings, including committee meetings, was important.

"I think Stanhope is envied in many ways," Davis said. He said that doom and gloom economic forecasts might effect Stanhope in some way but that council should try to "keep Stanhope as strong as possible."

"There's no way you can stand in front of an audience and say you're going to cut taxes; inflation takes care of that," Davis said.

Following Davis to the podium was candidate Googh who promised to give the "woman's point of view" on council. She said since women made up approximately half of the voters, they had a right to be represented on the council as it would be an asset in decision making.

If elected, Googh said she would like to see the roads improved for the tourists since they contributed greatly to the economy; would like the old township office restored for a museum; have the community centre used more often, possibly by starting a ladies auxiliary and would recognize the need for business and industry that will fit in with the established tourist business.

In the question period, Reeve Harrison wanted to know how Googh planned to use the community centre more.

Googh said she would like to start a ladies auxiliary which could sponsor Friday entertainment nights and possibly cater to activities.

"I know it's used a lot, but I still feel we could use it more," Googh said.

Barker said she had been asked to form a ladies auxiliary and had done some preliminary work.

Incumbent Johnson's main presentation was regarding the work being done on parks in the township.

Although he has served on the library, parks and recreation committees, as well as the fire department, Johnson said he felt he enjoyed his duties on parks the most.

He made special mention of the new swimming area at Hall's Lake and small tenting area on Kushog Lake which had been established with the assistance of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

The final candidate to speak, since they were called in alphabetical order, was Dale MacDonald. He told the audience he has lived in the area for the past seven years while operating a garage at Hall's Lake.

During that time he has been involved with the fire department and the snowmobile association.

For the past two and a half years he has attended many of the council meetings and said he'd "like to give it a try."

In fairness

Anson, Hindon and Minden council did nothing illegal when it rejected four tenders for a concrete block library building and accepted a tender for a log structure at a meeting last Wednesday. But in doing so it was unfair to the contractors whose estimates for a block structure had been submitted in good faith.

Specifications in the tender called for a concrete block building to be erected on a recently poured pad along the Bobcaygeon Road. In asking for tenders, council was trying to advance a project which has been foundering in indecision and disagreement for a number of years. The community's existing library is almost hopelessly inadequate and council has decided it can wait no longer. On the face of it, the push to get the library built is commendable, even if its timing - so close to a municipal election - might arouse the suspicions of some. But in acting hastily to opt for a kind of construction not specified in the original tender, council has left itself open to legitimate criticism from local builders and the general public.

When it decided to call for tenders on the building, council was apparently unaware that the structure could be built at least as quickly, and perhaps as economically, out of logs. Subsequently, local real estate company owner Ronald Wrightman, who also owns Bobcaygeon based 1867 Confederation Log Homes, sought and was given permission to submit a tender for log structure. Prior to the opening of the tenders last Wednesday night, council held an on-site meeting with Wrightman. Once tenders had been opened, the log construction company owner was given time to present his proposal to council. Later in the meeting, following a committee-of-the-whole session with the press and public excluded, council passed a resolution to accept the tenders from Wrightman.

Council's decision to opt for a log building is a sound one. Such buildings have a number of inherent advantages, including aesthetic appeal, a built-in insulation factor, rapid completion and an interior which is essentially finished when the logs have been put in place. And there is no doubt that a log library building will be an attractive addition to the community. But the fact remains that council should have given other people in the community and the surrounding area an opportunity to submit their proposals for a log structure.

If, as council has been led to believe, there are no other companies in Canada that can put up a log building as quickly and as economically as 1867 Confederation Log Homes of Bobcaygeon, then that company deserves to have been awarded the contract. But log construction is a burgeoning industry, and there are many companies, including some local contractors, who are engaged in it.

To be fair, council should have rejected the four tenders for the block buildings, as it had every right to do, and subsequently called for new tenders for a log building. That would have held back the new library by perhaps four weeks. Since the building has been discussed for years and will probably stand for at least a century, a four week delay seems insignificant indeed.

But then retendering also would have meant construction would not have started before election day.

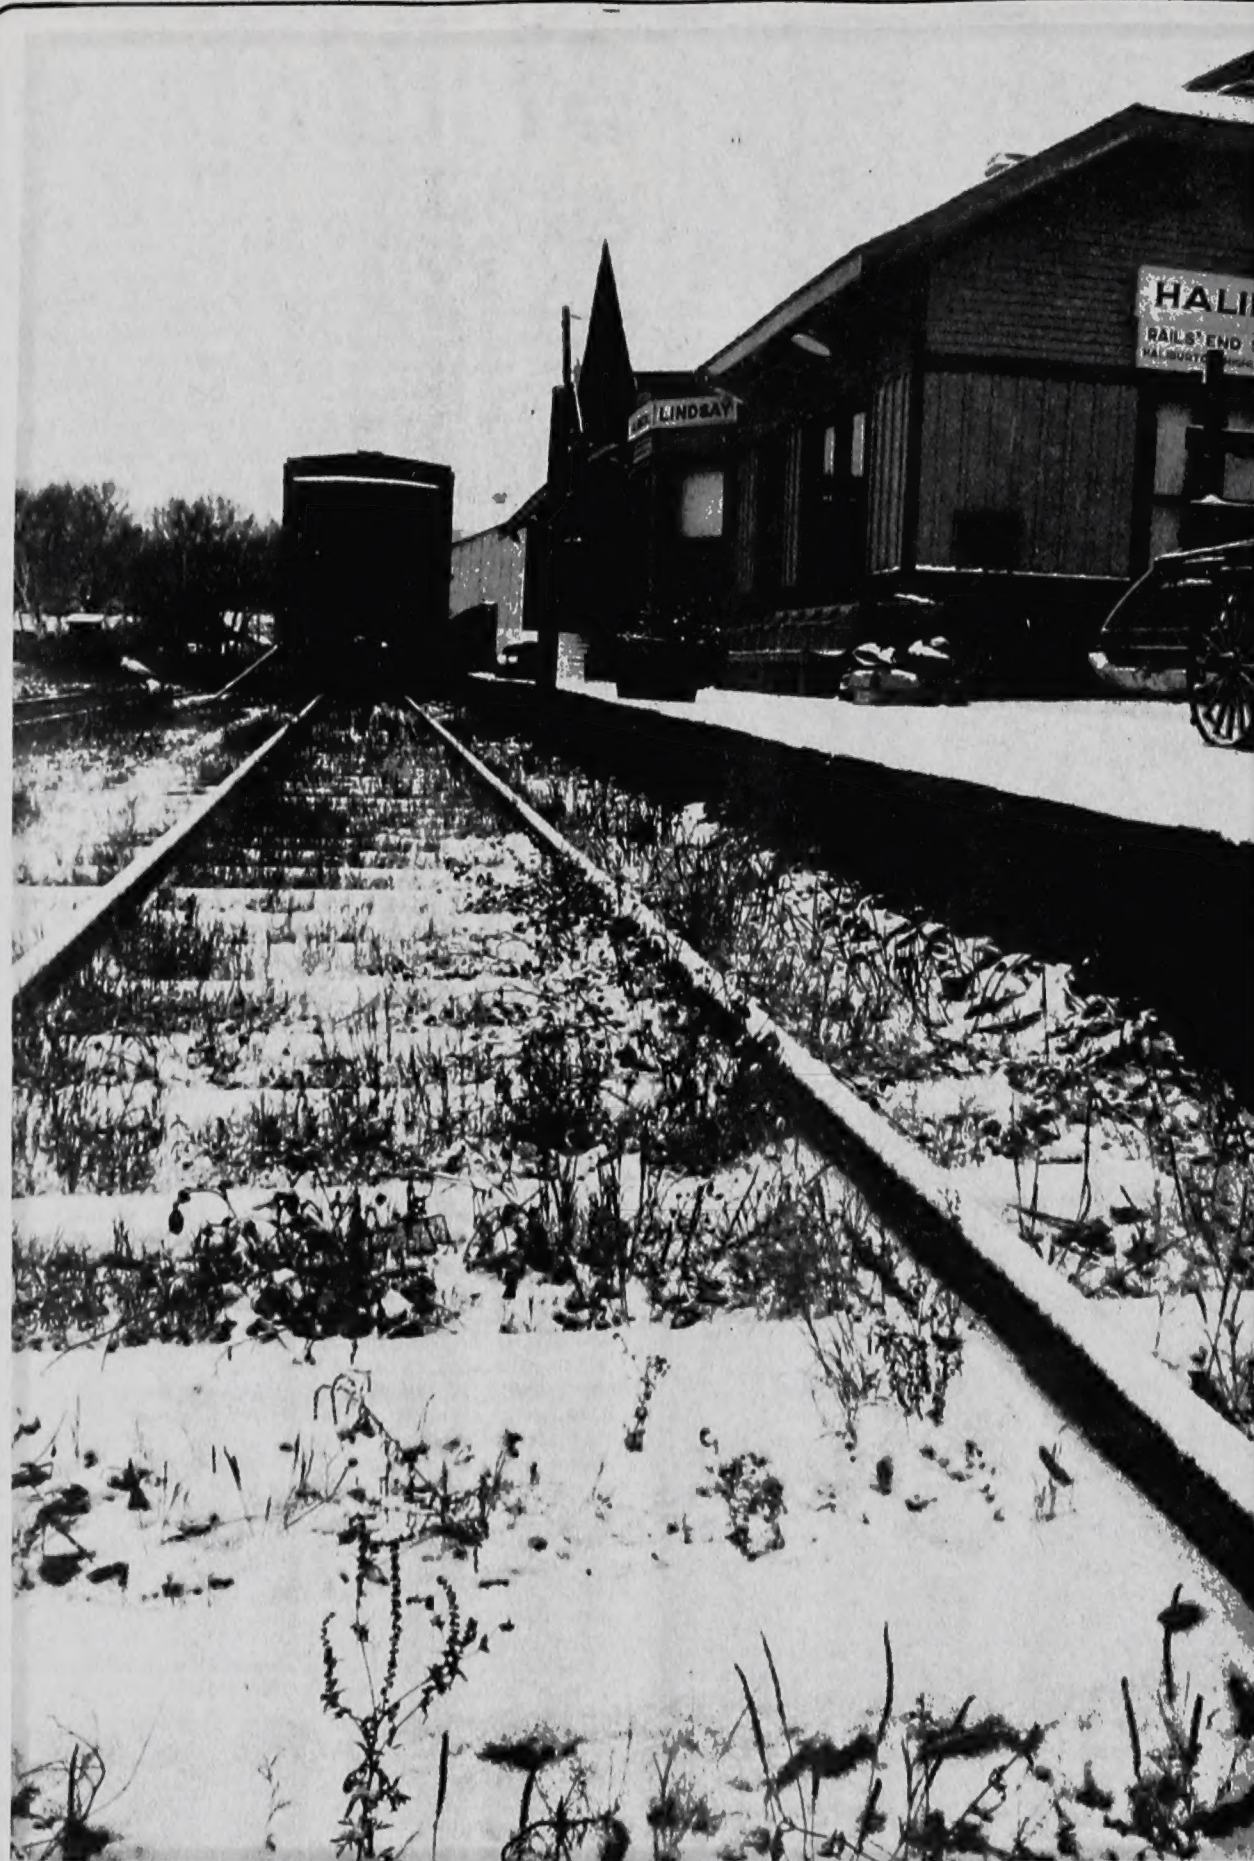

Accountability

A number of all candidates meetings will be held throughout Haliburton County between now and election day. The meetings are designed to give voters a chance to hear the platforms of hopefuls but they are also a forum in which municipal representatives who have been acclaimed to office can be questioned. And because the meetings provide that opportunity, every voter with an interest in the future should make an effort to attend.

Councils are, of course, open to suggestions and criticism from the public between elections, but in practice, very few people take advantage of their right to attend council sessions and hear decisions being made. Except for special interest delegations, the press, and occasional telephone calls from irate taxpayers, councils operate with little public scrutiny.

An all candidates meeting is an important opportunity to reinforce the fact that public officials, whether they are acclaimed or must fight for their seat, are accountable to the people.

If you are concerned about something in your municipality, get out to an all candidates meeting. There will never be a better opportunity to make your feelings known.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

To the Editor:

Last Wednesday evening I attended a very interesting and informative meeting regarding possible parental involvement in our educational system.

I was pleased to see that Blanche Turner was in attendance. I was truly disappointed that as far as I could see not one of the current trustees was present, even though invitations were posted in the Board of Education office.

I think that if the incumbents hope to be re-elected, they will have to show more interest in matters such as these.

Yours truly,
Judy Phillips,
Minden, Ontario

To the Editor:

As a summer resident in your area and a subscriber to the Haliburton Echo, I was most interested in your front page story "Parent Organization Seeks Involvement in Education". As President of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations Inc., I felt obliged to respond to this article to clarify home and school's position.

You mentioned traditional P.T.A.'s differing from the proposed group because the new group would deal with education across the county. Because Home and School has existed in Ontario for over 60 years, we have developed and grown through these years and changed with the times in order to meet the needs of children and parents in Ontario. We do deal with educational concerns not only at the local school, but at the county boards, at the regional offices of the Ministry of Education, and the Ministry of Education.

Our sole reason for existence is the welfare of all children. We offer parents in local Home and School Associations a voice in education in their community, as well as through all levels of the educational hierarchy right up to the provincial and federal levels of government through our resolutions, briefs, position papers, etc., on current educational issues.

However, unlike the Toronto East Community Council, we do not offer nor endorse a political affiliation. I refer you to a copy of a letter to the editor of our bulletin entitled "Leftists thwarted former H & S official writes." The letter explains the attempt to disband Jackman Home and School and to align it to the "East Toronto Community Council a newly formed leftist group which is backed by the N.D.P."

So if the parents of Haliburton County want a politically based parents group that is of course their choice. However, if they are interested in a democratic non-political parents organization interested solely in the welfare of children, why not give us a call, we'd be glad to talk to you about Home and School.

Yours very truly,
Ontario Federation of Home & School Associations

There is a "Wheels to Meals" program in the county which has been organized by the Haliburton County Home Support Services, and about which there is some misunderstanding.

Several inns, lodges and restaurants throughout the county provide these meals, at cost, to the elderly in their immediate community who are unable to get out to social functions and to the volunteers who drive them.

The businesses involved provide these meals, at cost, as a public service. The meals are not subsidized by the government or any other agency or organization.

Yours truly,
Doris McCann,
Chairman,

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter to express our appreciation to all the citizens who gave assistance to the members of Minden detachment during the search that was conducted for the late Mr. Grenville Dart.

During the evening of the 3rd of October 1980, this detachment was made aware that Mr. Dart had gone missing in the bush area around Fort Irwin. During the next three days an extensive search was made by our members and volunteers from the area. The area covered by the search consisted of very dense bush spotted by swamps, beaver ponds, windfalls, and criss-crossed by logging roads. On top of this the weather was extremely adverse as it continued to rain all the time the search was being conducted.

I would like to thank every person who participated in any capacity. There were searchers who walked the bush, the people who drove the roads, the persons who assisted with advice who knew the area. There must be a special thanks to the ladies of the community who kept everyone supplied with sandwiches and hot coffee.

I have written letters to most of those involved but I would like to use this space to say it again and to ensure no one is missed.

Once again thank you on behalf of the detachment for your assistance and co-operation during this very difficult task.

Speaking on behalf of our members, we wish to express our sympathy to the Dart family.

W. R. Bailey,
Sergeant,

Whoever said money doesn't grow on trees was crazy.

That's the view of Kenneth D. Greaves, president of the Ontario Forest Industries Association. He has a vision of the future and it's built around an endless supply of trees, each producing bushels of bucks.

But to start harvesting them, he says, the forestry industry, the federal and provincial governments and the owners of the forests - the Canadian people - have to make some clear, long-range decisions based on intelligent economic thinking.

He won't say it directly, but he suggests that it hasn't always been done, and isn't being done now. He does say it's incredible that so little attention is paid to Canada's greatest industry.

Value

Last year, the value of forest products was $20 billion. Of that, $12 billion was exported, making it Canada's No. 1 contributor to the balance of payments and worth more than the combined total of mines, hydrocarbon fuels (oil and natural gas) fishing and agriculture.

Capital investment by the industry, including harvesting equipment, was worth $2.5 billion, about one-fifth the total put into Canadian manufacturing.

The forest industry's total payroll is more than $5 billion a year, and the combined direct and indirect employment provided by the industry is estimated to provide one job in 10 in Canada.

Mr. Greaves says the Canadian forest industry is expected to invest at least $30 billion in the next decade to modernize its operations. That would likely increase production by about 50 percent, according to government forecasts.

But it will be far short of keeping pace with the anticipated growth in total world demand for forest products. The United Nations has said that demand will at least double by the year 2000 and some forecasts talk of a tripling in consumption.

This will mean, greatly increased profits not only for the industry but, through taxes and other levies, for both provincial and federal governments, Mr. Greaves says.

He argues more money should be invested in the forests now to permit a better return in the future, especially by governments.

"Last year the forest industry and its employees provided well over $2 billion to the federal and provincial treasuries in corporation and personal taxes," he says.

"Of that, less than five cents - and it's probably closer to two or three cents of every dollar was spent by the governments in renewing and improving the forests."

Inadequate

Mr. Greaves says this reinvestment is "woefully inadequate" if the forests are to develop their true potential.

Even a 50 percent increase in productivity, as forecast by the governments, could be threatened unless steps are taken to protect the forests through proper management, genetic improvement of trees, and seeding and planting, he says.

"The first principle of forest management is the protection of our productive forest land base" - protection against fire, insects and disease and against what Mr. Greaves calls keeping the forests for single non-productive use instead of multiple benefits.

That's another way of saying putting large sections of forest areas aside for parks, banning forest operations. Mr. Greaves says harvesting can be carried out while providing recreational facilities.

He notes Ontario's Algonquin Park, about 90 miles (150 kilometres) north of Toronto, has been logged over completely during the past 125 years, with some areas providing four harvests in that time. But it still is a wilderness site, he says.

In terms of forest protection, Mr. Greaves says fires get the most attention, especially this year in view of severe outbreaks.

Ontario's fires destroyed trees that would have added $3 billion to the economy if they had been harvested, he says, and prompt attention has to be given to establishing better fire-fighting systems, including the possibility of a national service that could be moved quickly to outbreaks as they develop.

Mr. Greaves gets a lot tougher talking about insects in forests, referring to the "disastrous history" in Nova Scotia.

"In that province, the destruction of the forest has resulted from a callous disregard of the most rudimentary elements of forest management by successive provincial governments charged with the constitutional responsibility to manage the resource."

"The highlands of Cape Breton have been ravaged by the spruce budworm."

"May all future generations of Canadians, not just Nova Scotians, remember this disaster could have been prevented had the government of that province listened to sound technical and professional advice instead of to highly vocal uninformed minorities led by poorly educated individuals more interested in notoriety than truth."

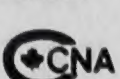

In New Brunswick, Mr. Greaves says, "we see a responsible government backed by an informed public battling successfully to preserve their forests and their economy."

He points out that 90 percent of Canada's forests are Crown owned - that is, owned by the people of Canada.

The people, he says, have a responsibility to make sure the forests are used properly for the greatest benefit of all in perpetuity.

Pic of the Past

The year was 1951 and as you can see by this photo a large crowd turned out to trip the light fantastic at a Red Cross dance in the Legion Auditorium at Haliburton. Some of you might recognize several of the people in this picture. Two people that we do

Grading System On The Way

Probably one of the most controversial projects to be attempted in the tourist industry in a number of years is the Grading System now being brought on stream by Tourism Ontario. The research and preparation they have put into the project so far would suggest that it will be well done and accomplish all that is expected of it, but the pitfalls and problems they are bound to encounter are many and varied. The industry does agree generally, that in spite of the difficulties, it is worth doing, and in fact may even be a necessity to our very survival in the competitive world market for tourism dollars.

Tourism Ontario, although subsidized by some Ontario government money is not a government body, but an association that represents all the other associations involved in the tourist industry. Local operators may either have representation on that board through our membership in Central Ontario Travel Association, or through their own membership in organizations such as Resorts Ontario, Ontario Hotel and Motel Association, or the Ontario Private Campground Association. The directors are all volunteers, but they like the Chamber, have a paid staff and will be employing full time inspectors to carry out grading on all facilities that sign up for the program. It should be stressed that the program is voluntary, but has the full support of the Ministry of Industry and Tourism. Those that have been graded will therefore be highlighted in the 400,000 accommodation guides produced and distributed by the ministry each year. It is anticipated that tourists will soon relate to the star rating that categorizes the grade of facility is not only within their pocket book but also fits their expectations.

Two mailings have been done to the members of the industry to date and a series of seminars are being held to explain the process in detail and answer any questions. The first sign of things becoming controversial showed up at a meeting at Huntsville last week. Some resorts present were very concerned about the fact that there will be no attempt, at least for now, to grade "subjective" items such as reputation of establishment, atmosphere, quality of food, friendliness and courtesy of staff, and property location and convenience. Some of these specifics were deemed to be so important to some individual resorts, and in turn effect their rates that they would not consider participating in the program unless they were included. This could certainly be the situation in the case of our older resorts that rely more on their character and gourmet food than new facilities to entice their guests. If there are enough operators in this category that are concerned enough, presumably Tourism Ontario could be convinced to re-examine their priorities on this point.

The organizers of this project are certainly to be congratulated for their efforts to date and we would hope that a major portion of our accommodation facilities here in Haliburton County will consider participating. Anyone who has not received the mailings that have been completed may obtain further information by writing Tourism Ontario, 180 Bloor St. West, Toronto, M5S 2V6.

Meet Your Candidates

Some all-candidates meeting have already been held throughout the county and we would hope they were well attended. Mutual Life of Canada

Bill Smiley

Do you like autumn? I do. For me, it's the epitome of all that's best in Canada. You can have your spring, glorious spring, with its drizzles and its mud and its chilling winds. You can have your summer, with its particular pests - tourists, bugs, visitors. And you can most definitely have winter in its every possible aspect. Just give me about six months of that September-October weather, and you couldn't drag me out of this country to the island of Bali.

I know that, according to the rhythm of nature, fall is supposed to be a time of dying, of melancholy, of shrivelling on the vine, or preparing for the deep, dead sleep of winter.

Maybe Canadians are just contrary, but they don't react in the way they're supposed to at all, in the fall. Instead of carefully preparing for winter, drawing in their horns, and going around with long faces, they bust out all over as soon as that first nip is felt in the morning air.

Perhaps they're just fooling themselves, but Canadians act as though they love the fall. They come to life. They bustle. They form committees, make plans, have parties. They even start going to church. Perhaps it's just a last hysterical fling, a frantic escape from reality, with the grim prospect of six months' winter ahead, but they certainly burn with a clear, gem-like flame while it lasts.

Where is the sober householder who should be chinking up the nooks and crannies, putting on the storm windows, getting in his fuel supply, and batten down all the hatches for the bitter voyage that looms ahead?

I'll tell you where he is, on his day off. He's standing in ice water up to his nipples, trying to catch a rainbow trout. Or out on the golf course, so bundled with sweaters he can hardly swing. Or he's sitting with a noggin, watching the football game on television. That's where he is.

And where's the guide-wife, who should be knitting woollen socks, putting down preserves and canned meat, airing the flannel sheets, patching the family's long underwear, and quilting a quilt?

I'll tell you where she is. She's on the phone, talking about what she's going to wear to the tea. Or she's off in the car to attend a wedding. Or she's out playing bingo. Or she's taking in an auction sale. Or she's sitting around with her feet up, watching the afternoon movie. That's where she is.

It must shake our pioneer ancestors rigid to look down, or up, from their present abode, and see us preparing for winter. About this time of year, grandfather was killing a beef, shooting a deer, salting down a hog, making apple cider, stacking vast piles of firewood and hustling his wheat to the mill.

It must rot his celestial socks to look down and see his grandson hunting deer for a holiday, buying his pig pre-cooked at the meat counter, and laying in his fuel supply by picking up the phone and calling the oil dealer.

And what about Granny? In her day, fall was the time when you worked like a beaver, making sausage, spinning wool, putting eggs away in waterglass, filling the root cellar, making candles and soap.

She must do a little quiet cussing, in the shadow of her halo, when she sees her granddaughter facing up to the rigors of winter: racked by the dreadful indecision of whether to buy a home freezer or a fur coat; torn by the dilemma of whether to have the cleaning woman come once or twice a week.

But, of course, that's looking at only one side of the situation. Granddaddy didn't have to worry about anti-freeze, atom bombs, income tax or payments on the car. He didn't need suppositories, diets and a new tail-pipe every time he turned around.

And Granny didn't have to cope with a kitchen full of machinery, kids who were smarter than she was, and the late movie. She didn't need sleeping pills, cigarettes or psychology.

Say, come to think of it those were the good old days. They didn't have much, but what they had was their own, not the finance company's. No auto accidents, no alcoholics anonymous, no aspirin. Let's stop worrying about the hardships of our pioneer ancestors and get back to sweating over our own neurotic chaos.

Report from Parliament

by MP Bill Scott

The deep feelings of alienation among Canadians, and in Parliament, were strengthened last Thursday night when the government invoked closure to shut off debate on Prime Minister Trudeau's Constitution Resolution.

When he tabled his resolution in the House of Commons on October 6th, the Prime Minister said that he wanted all members to participate in the debate on the motion, and yet he invoked closure before even half the Members in the Opposition parties had had an opportunity to speak.

The Prime Minister said that the Opposition parties were stalling the resolution in the House and preventing it from going to committee, but the fact is that more Liberal than Conservative Members had spoken on the measure when debate was shut off.

Seven out of the ten provincial governments have rejected Mr. Trudeau's Constitutional proposals flatly, and six of them have joined forces to challenge the validity of his resolution in provincial courts. At least one other provincial government is luke-warm to the proposals.

This dissatisfaction on the part of the provinces, and on the part of the Official Opposition in the House of Commons, is just too important to be ignored. The Right Honourable Joe Clark, Leader of the Opposition in the House, asked the Prime Minister to take this into account and extend his deadline for completion of committee hearings from December 9 to February 22, Mr. Trudeau refused.

Last Thursday morning I rose in the House and moved a Motion Under House Standing Order 43, asking the Prime Minister to test his proposals in the Supreme Court of Canada to clear up doubts in the minds of Canadians as to the Constitutionality of the government resolution. Some Liberal and NDP Members refused to allow my motion to carry.

The government resolution was tabled in the Senate at the same time that it was presented in the House, and not all Liberal Senators approve of the Prime Minister's methods in trying to bring home the Constitution.

Senator George McIlraith, a Liberal Member of Parliament for over 30 years, a former Cabinet Minister and now a Liberal Senator said on October 21 in the Senate that Mr. Trudeau's choice of a joint House/Senate committee to study the resolution was not a proper one.

The Senator said that the committee would not be able to function with either the rules of the House or the Senate, and would therefore be limited in its effectiveness. He said that in a legal sense the committee would be non-existent, and there would not be any way that the committee would be able to make recommendations to the house with regard to amendments.

What this means is that Trudeau has in effect created his own vehicle to ensure that his resolution will slip through both Houses of Parliament in a minimum of time, and with the barest minimum of public debate.

Joe Clark has urged all Members of the Conservative Caucus in the House to get the message across to the Canadian people that "what the Liberals are saying in their advertising campaign, and what is actually in their Constitutional package are two different things."

Trudeau says that he is bringing home the BNA Act, but he is really trying to bring home a much-amended BNA Act, complete with a locked-in amending formula that effectively shuts the provincial governments out of the decision making process on national issues.

By using their majority in the House to inflict on us a made-by Trudeau Constitution, the Liberal government in Ottawa is guilty of the most flagrant abuse of power ever perpetrated by the Canadian Parliament. A Constitution should be the result of public discussion and agreement, not the product of wheeling and dealing in the back rooms of power.

Hydro rates to rise

Ontario Hydro's Board of Directors has given final approval to an average 9.4 percent increase in the 1981 bulk power rates, Chairman Hugh Macaulay has announced.

The increase in rates is consistent with the Ontario Energy Board recommendations made following public hearings during the summer.

The bulk power rate will be increased by 9.3 percent to Ontario's 324 municipal utilities, 9.6 percent to about 100 large direct industrial customers, and 9.9 percent to Hydro's rural distribution theory and 90 percent in electricity practical.

The Curry Motors Ltd. Award, a prize of $100, was presented to Vincent Hammond, who had 89 percent in auto mechanics theory and 84 percent in auto mechanics practical.

Taking home the Skyline Automotive Award, a set of mechanics tools, was George Crofts, who had 85 percent in auto mechanics theory and 84 percent in auto mechanics practical.

Winner of the Northern-Ways Ltd. Award, a prize of $75, was Lee Potter with 89 percent in drafting theory and 91 percent in drafting practical.

The HHSS staff scholarship for technical proficiency, a prize of $100, was won by Mitchell Stephen with an average of 79.3 percent. Stephen also won the A. R. Williams Co. Ltd. Award, which consists of his name on a plaque in the school's technical wing.

The presentation of commercial proficiency awards was next on the program.

The Haliburton Legion Scholarship for office procedure, a prize of $50, was shared by Linda Mitchell and Laurie Hartin, both of whom had 88 percent in the subject. Linda Mitchell was also the winner of the $100 Dawson and Gray Scholarship with 65 percent in accounting and 85 percent in shorthand.

Winner of the Valerie Cowan Memorial Award, a prize of $25 was Michele Horsley.

The HHSS Staff Scholarship for business and commerce, a portable typewriter, went to Deborah Miller with an average of 83.9 percent. She also won the Wilberforce Veneer Co. Award, her name on a plaque in the commercial wing.

Year 1 and Year 2 awards were next on the program.

Agnes Red and White Awards consisting of trophies for the Year 1 academic boy and girl with the highest averages in January examinations went to Karen Gillespie with 81.5 percent and Jeffrey Dawson with 85.3 percent. Karen Gillespie also won the Sherman Taylor Award, a prize of $25 and a trophy for marks of 83 percent in History and 88 percent in Geography.

Dawn Wright was the winner of the Canning Lake Property Owners Award, consisting of $25 and a trophy for the 79 percent she received in English.

The A1 Mathematics Award, a prize of $25, went to Karen Gillespie who had 93 percent in the subject.

The G2 Mathematics Scholarship, a prize of $50, went to Lorraine Carpenter who also had 93 percent in math.

The Jim Cooper Scholarship, a prize of $50, was shared by Laura Pockett and Karen Stewart who each had 94 percent in mathematics.

Taking home the Archie Stouffer Scholarship for G2 science, a prize of $25, was Robert Medcalf who had 88 percent in the subject.

The Archie Stouffer Scholarship for A2 science, a prize of $25 went to Michael Pearson with 87 percent.

The A2 Mathematics Award, a prize of $25, went to Kathy Mosgrove with 96 percent.

Gregg Feltham was the winner of the Year 2 French Award, a prize of $25.

Winner of the Laurie Bacon Memorial Award, a prize of $25, was Tammy Burroughs who had 78 percent in English.

The Philip Payne Memorial Bursary, an award of $50, went to Melvyn Ridgewell.

Prizes and awards were also handed out to Year 3 and Year 4 students who excelled in various subjects.

The Year 3 History Scholarship, a prize of $50, went to Randy Vanderstarren who had 89 percent in the subject.

The Year 4 History Scholarship, also worth $50, was presented to Cheryl Bruce with 83 percent.

Winner of the G3 Technical Mathematics Scholarship of $25 was Bret Austen with 93 percent.

The A3 Mathematics Award, a prize of $50, was shared by Michael Anderson and Ernest Mosgrove, both of whom had 91 percent in the subject.

Taking home the $100 Physical Geography-geology Scholarship was Leslie Booth with 83 percent.

Michael Wright's 85 percent in Geography earned him the $100 Haliburton and District Real Estate Board scholarship.

The Year 4 French Award, a prize of $50, went to Elizabeth Cooper who received 92 percent in the subject.

Elizabeth Cooper also shared the $50 Mathematics and Science Award with Michael Wright. Cooper had 78 in Mathematics and 91 in Chemistry while Wright had 85 in Mathematics and 84 in Chemistry.

Winner of Mrs. Marge Ferguson Award, a prize of $100, was Deborah Miller who had 88 percent in English.

Taking home the $50 Arts and Science Bursary was Laurie Hartin.

Next group to be honoured were the Year 4 graduates.

The Drag Lake Property Owners Association Award, a prize of $50, went to Tammy Dewey.

Winner of the Donald J. Fenn bursary, an award of $50 was Michele Horsley.

The $100 Curtis Way Memorial Bursary went to Scott Welch.

Sharing the Haliburton Legion Bursary of $200 were Laurie Roberts and Leslie Mihaldinecz.

The Minden Rotary Club Bursary of $200 was also divided among two students this year: Cheryl Dillon and Sara Walker.

Sharing the W. R. Curry Memorial Bursary, an award of $200, were Herbert Roodenburg and Mark Smith.

The Mrs. Sandra Valentine Scholarship, a prize of $25, went to Russell O'Brien for his 88 percent in Instrumental Music.

Other music awards, the Ralph Hussey Memorial Scholarship, the Tim Harrison Memorial Scholarship, the Mrs. Margaret Finney Scholarship and the William Gliddon Scholarship were not presented this year. The $175 total proceeds from these awards were transferred to the Haliburton Highlands Loan Fund.

Year 5 graduates were the final group to be honoured.

The Students Council Scholarship, a prize of $200, went to Andrew Shapiera who had 77 percent in English Literature and 85 percent in English Communications.

David Shapiera was also the winner of the $200 Clayton W. Hodgson Memorial Scholarship with 86 percent in History.

The $100 HHSS Staff Scholarship for Geography went to Shelley Thompson who had 87 percent in the subject.

The Mrs. Lillian Curry Scholarship for Languages, presented by the Highlands Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, was awarded by reversion from Paul Madden with 84 percent to Jocelyn Kennedy with 75 percent.

The $200 HHSS Staff Scholarship for Science also went to Jocelyn Kennedy who had 87 percent in Physics and 79 percent in Chemistry.

Winner of the Haliburton Rotary Club Scholarship, valued at $300, was Paul Madden with marks of 95 percent in Functions and Relations, 94 percent in Calculus and 95 percent in Algebra.

Kevin O'Hara was the winner of the Haliburton Rotary Club Bursary, an award of $250.

The Mrs. Hazel R. Newman Memorial Bursary of $500 went to Shelley Hicks.

Brenda Noble was the winner of the $100 Mrs. Jean Herlihey Memorial Bursary.

The Haliburton County Board of Education Bursary, an award of $500, was shared by Susan Austen and Francis Forrest.

Taking home the Haliburton Legion Scholarship, valued at $100, was Edward Roberts.

Paul Madden was the winner of the Drag Lake Property Owners Scholarship, valued at $50, for his final average of 90.8 percent. Madden also took the Lodenquai Scholarship, valued at $100 and the F. D. Herlihey Memorial Scholarship, valued at $200.

On hand to present $100 awards to Ontario scholars, those students with an average of at least 80 percent in Year 5, was John Eakins, MPP for Victoria-Haliburton. The awards went to Martha Carnochan, 80.8 percent; Jocelyn Kennedy, 85.8 percent; Paul Madden, 90.8 percent; Edward Roberts, 84.0 percent; David Shapiera, 80.7 percent; and Gregory Taylor, 80.5 percent.

Haliburton Highlands Honour Society Certificates for four consecutive years on the honour roll went Cheryl Bruce, Lorna Carnegie, Elizabeth Cooper, Laurie Hartin, Heather Kennedy, Brenda Morrison, Lee Potter, Shelley Thomson, Miriam Vanderwal and Michael Wright.

Final item on the program was the presentation of school letters. The winners were Michael Iles, Jocelyn Kennedy, Paul Madden, Edward Roberts and David Shapiera.

Recognition of need was only clear consensus

Parent group forms steering committee

A steering committee for an organization that will focus on education issues was set up at a public meeting last Wednesday night.

The meeting, chaired by Belinda Brown, one of several people who have been discussing the idea of a parent group, was called to determine the level of public interest. And while no clear direction emerged, the majority of the 28 people who attended appeared to feel that the concept of an association should be pursued.

Speaker for the evening was Mario Godlewski, vice president of the Toronto Teacher Federation who is also a grievance officer and negotiator.

Godlewski outlined the formation and structure of school staffing committees, a relatively new addition to the education system unique to the City of Toronto.

The committees, composed of teachers and parents, make recommendations on staffing and programs to the board of education. Although teachers were initially reluctant to agree to the committees, experience has shown that parents can be important allies in dealing with boards of education, Godlewski told the meeting. The committees have been successful in retaining programs and teaching jobs in the face of declining enrolment, he said, noting that "in practice, parents cannot be bought off" by arguments about rising costs.

The right to form staffing committees and to formulate "staffing models" for adoption by the board is included in Toronto Teachers Federation members contracts, Godlewski said.

While the concept appeared to interest many of those present at the meeting, no one was prepared to say they should form the platform of a local parents committee.

Instead, the consensus of the meeting was that there is a need for some as yet undetermined form of parent involvement in education in Haliburton County.

Further public meetings to discuss recommendations from the steering committee are expected to be held in the near future.

river side of North Water Street be left as it is.

However, council suggested that some type of parking area should be established, and asked about the possibility of using the property beside the church. The church has purchased this property and has subsequently renovated the house on it. Lewis told council the property had not been purchased to use as a parking lot.

Reeve Sinc Nesbitt stressed that he felt the church should create a parking lot since the municipality wished to continue with improvements to the river bank area. He suggested the parishioners might consider filling the bog behind the church to use for a parking area.

But Lewis seemed hesitant about the suggestion of filling the bog and wondered if it would be successful.

"Any car parked in downtown Minden is parked on a bog," councillor Stu Brandon said to Lewis.

Lewis will take the matter back to the parishioners for further consideration.

Huskies lose to Bracebridge, beat Oro in weekend games

The Haliburton Huskies have now met each of the teams in their league at least once, and already a pattern seems to be emerging. On home ice, bolstered by vocal fan support, they have been strong offensively and defensively. On unfamiliar ice, however, they're having a lot more trouble.

It's a pattern they'll have to alter soon if they hope to finish among the top four in the eight-team loop.

Friday the Huskies travelled to Bracebridge to round out the first part of the season and although they did manage two power play goals in the third period, it proved to be too little, too late.

The Huskies were kept off the board for the entire first period, while Bracebridge managed to put one by Craig Wood at the 8:13 mark to make it 1-0 at the start of the second.

The Huskies Ed Davies evened things up at the 1:23 mark with an assist from Mike Rae and Kevin O'Hara, but Bracebridge stormed back, chalking up four more before the period ended, at 3:25 when the teams were even; at 8:51 while Jim Lee was sitting out a slashing call; at 14:30 while Darin MacInnis was out for cross checking, and at 14:50 when the Huskies were back at full strength.

Bracebridge stretched their lead to five at 49 seconds of the third but Chris Hodgson came up with the Huskies second at 4:23 on a power play to cut the lead to four. Assisting on the play were Dave Nicholls and MacInnis.

Nicholls got the Huskies third goal at 17:23, again on a power play assisted by MacInnis.

Bracebridge managed two more in the period, however, and ended up on the winning end of an 8-3 score.

The loss left the Huskies with two wins and five losses to close out the first part of the season.

Sunday the Huskies were at home against Oro who had beaten them 5-3 in their first meeting.

This time, however, it was a different story, as the Huskies managed to turn the score around in their favour.

The local squad got off to a good start in the first period as Shawn Chapman made it 1-0 on an unassisted goal at 5:20, and they stayed on top for the rest of the game.

Chris Hodgson opened the gap to two at 17:15 of the period on a power play effort. Dave Nicholls assisted Hodgson on the play.

Early in the second period, Oro rallied to cut the Huskies lead to one, but they were shut out for the rest of the frame, while the Huskies managed to move out in front.

At the 8:38 mark the Huskies power play again clicked, as Darin MacInnis put one by the Oro net minder with assists from Nicholls and Hodgson. With just 2:22 left to play in the period the gap was widened to 4-1 as Mike Scheffee drove one into the mesh, assisted by Hodgson.

The Huskies offensive effort slowed down a little in the third period as the team concentrated on protecting their lead. Four minutes and 38 seconds into the period, Oro put one by Dave Elstone to narrow the gap to 4-2, but at 11:49, Shawn Chapman teamed up with Kevin O'Hara and Brian Lloyd for the Huskies fifth score of the game.

Oro was unable to recover, although they did manage one more at the 15:45 mark to round out the scoring.

Final score was Haliburton 5, Oro 3.

This week the Huskies will be at home Friday night against Parry Sound beginning at 8:30 and at home again Sunday against Midland. Starting time is 4 p.m.

Moose hunt could reach all-time high

Moose hunting in the Minden district may reach an all-time high again this year, according to a spokesman for the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Approximately 60 to 70 moose were shot during the seasons from last Monday until Saturday, according to Eric Mitchell, fish and wildlife co-ordinator for the district.

Although the figures are not confirmed yet, Mitchell said the harvest is expected to be near the record high of 72 moose shot in the 1978 season.

The present estimation is reached by interviews with area hunters, conducted by the district's conservation officers, Mitchell said. Official figures will be obtained through approximately 230 questionnaires sent out to hunt camps in the surrounding area and by the number of moose jaws and hides which are delivered to the ministry office.

On Monday, 15 lower jaws had been dropped off to the MNR.

The 1976 moose hunt yielded only approximately 50 moose, Mitchell said.

This year two major changes were made in the hunt, Mitchell said. The season was separated from the deer season, by moving it two weeks ahead. Also, a new regulation required two hunters, instead of one, to tag a moose after it had been shot.

Since the moose hunt was changed to every other year many years ago, Mitchell said it has made it easier on the herds.

Many years ago it was proven the annual season was detrimental to the moose herd, but Mitchell said the staggered season was "not adversely affecting the herd."

He pointed out moose winter very easily and do not experience the feeding problems which deer encounter almost every winter.

Deer season in the Minden district begins November 3 and ends November 8.

Men's rec. hockey league set to go

The Haliburton Men's Recreational Hockey League is now a reality. A four-team league has been established, with the games scheduled every Monday night from October 27 to February 2. (game times are 9:00 p.m. and 10:15 p.m.). League organizer Derrell Stamp said the set-up of the league was assisted greatly by the sponsorship of the individual teams by local businesses, Bishop and Wilson, Curry Motors, Emmerson Lumber and Haliburton Lumber. "The league owes a very sincere thank you to these businesses for their assistance," Stamp said.

Admission to the games is free, so be sure to get out and see local stars of the distant and not too distant past in action. Below is the schedule for the season.

T-C Novice take Omemee in first game

Haliburton Tri-County Novice team met Omemee in Haliburton Saturday and came away with a 5-0 victory. In the first period, Drew Bannister opened the scoring, assisted by Jamie Hunter. Time of the goal was 4:13. Haliburton stretched their lead in the second period as Shawn Perrin made it 2-0 at 1:57, assisted by Jeff Stamp and Dave Bint. Just four seconds later, Shawn Perrin got his second, this time unassisted.

With only 14 seconds left to go in the period, Ryan Griffin found the mark, also unassisted.

Haliburton rounded out their scoring at 7:25 of the third period when Brian Waller netted one, assisted by Lance Stinson.

Arena plant wall damaged by truck

A concrete block wall enclosing ice making machinery at the rear of the Dysart arena was heavily damaged when it was struck by a truck that went out of control on Highway 121 at the foot of Dover's Hill.

The truck left the scene moments after the collision. Cont'd. page 16

Winterize your vehicles before the snow flies

Your car has been outside all day in egg-frying temperatures.

You slip behind the wheel of your car, snap on the seatbelt and turn the key.

It starts...just as it did a few months ago when it was in your driveway all night in sub-freezing weather.

Amazing?

Not at all, but perhaps it should be because your car - if typical - has received much less care than it deserves. Recommended service intervals are too often ignored by many motorists, the same people who would never think of letting a week go by without vacuuming all the carpeting in the house, or following a schedule for watering their plants.

OUTSTANDING MACHINE

The automobile is truly an outstanding machine, says the Automotive Information Council. Not only is it expected to function under such a wide range of weather conditions, but it is subjected to road salt, pot holes, wash board roads, careless and hard driving and indifferent maintenance.

"I can't think of another product that has to do so much under so many adverse conditions," said Ronald H. Weiner, president of the Automotive Information Council.

"We have come to rely on the proper functioning of an automobile to the point where we never make a time allowance in case the car should fail to go," Weiner said. "We just expect it to start up and move out, and fortunately, that's what happens almost every time. But the isolated instance causes the owner to forget the many hundreds or thousands of times the car started without a problem."

SIMPLE TUNE-UP

"And chances are that the problem resulted from the neglect. A simple tune-up, adding water to the battery, cleaning the battery terminal, a lubrication, using a carburetor cleaner: All of these minor items can go a long way in keeping a reliable product even more reliable."

Tires, too, are neglected

even though the air is free.

CAR MORE COMPLEX

At the same time, the car has become far more complex, with the great growth in use of air conditioning, power steering and brakes, cruise control, air emission systems and others.

"Give your car just a little tender loving care and it should last you more than 100,000 miles with great convenience and very few problems."

VITAL SERVICES BEING IGNORED

If you're looking for a good reason to keep a safe distance from cars you share the road with, consider a recent study conducted by the Motor and Equipment Manufacturer's Association (MEMA).

According to MEMA, of original owner vehicles (average age 3.86 years) more than 40 percent of the maintenance jobs recommended in the owner's manual had not been performed once.

The report continued, "... among five year old cars nearly 23 percent had maintenance outstanding. Among cars 11 years old and older nearly 11 percent of the maintenance functions will had not been done."

Among the most neglected items are components that affect safety. Nearly 54 percent of all cars 3.86 years old have never had brakes replaced. With the normal recommendation of 25,000 mile shock absorber replacement, 57.7 percent of all cars still have original shocks after nearly four years of driving.

COOLING SYSTEMS

Some cars or components when they fail, cause the engine to stop at once. The ignition system is a good example. Others, like the braking system, create hazardous situations. And electrical trouble, at best, is inconvenient when the car won't start.

Failure in other areas, such as the engine lubrication or cooling systems, can be destructive. These are the main safeguards of the engine. Without oil or coolant the engine can seize up, with possibly major damage as a result.

The latter system is relatively easy to understand and check, says the Automotive Cooling System Institute. In addition to the anti-freeze-coolant, you'll be concerned with the condition of belts, hoses and clamps, thermostat, pressure cap and radiator.

The master brake cylinder should be full of brake fluid. If it is down significantly have the braking system checked for leaks.

The automatic transmission fluid should be checked for colour, smell and proper level. If it is a brownish colour and smells burned, have it changed and the bands checked and adjusted.

10,000 mile check

Spark plugs affect vehicle operation

A spark plug may look good to the casual observer after 15,000, 20,000 or even 30,000 miles.

So why change plugs after 10,000 miles of use in your family car?

There's a good reason according to experts. The 10,000 mile change recommendation is not actually based on the fact that spark plugs are "worn out" in the strictest sense after 10,000 miles of service.

This figure - selected after extensive spark plug life tests - merely represents a safety factor beyond which plugs may misfire under the sudden demands of peak acceleration or extremely heavy load.

Gas Economy Drop

It also represents the point at which gas economy begins to drop. In addition, the car is harder to start, power is lost in passing.

A spark plug is considered worn out when it reaches the point where it is likely to misfire - regardless of its appearance. And, contrary to popular opinion, misfiring doesn't necessarily mean the plug didn't create a spark. It means simply that the plug failed to ignite the gasoline properly - whether a spark was produced or not!

A new spark plug with the correct gap setting needs about 5,000 volts to fire. However, as the plug remains in service, constant heat and chemical attack plus electrical erosion cause the gap to become wider, thus increasing the amount of voltage to fire the plug.

Gap Gets Wider

Spark plug gap growth occurs at a rate of about .001 inch for each 1,000 miles of driving. Consequently, a set of plugs that has been in service for 10,000 miles generally will have gaps that are about .010 inch wider than the original settings and higher voltage is needed to make them spark.

And, this is only for normal driving. Operating the engine at very high speed can decrease the amount of coil voltage available to fire the spark plugs by 30 to 40 percent! Accelerating to pass on a highway may practically double the voltage burden on the spark plug.

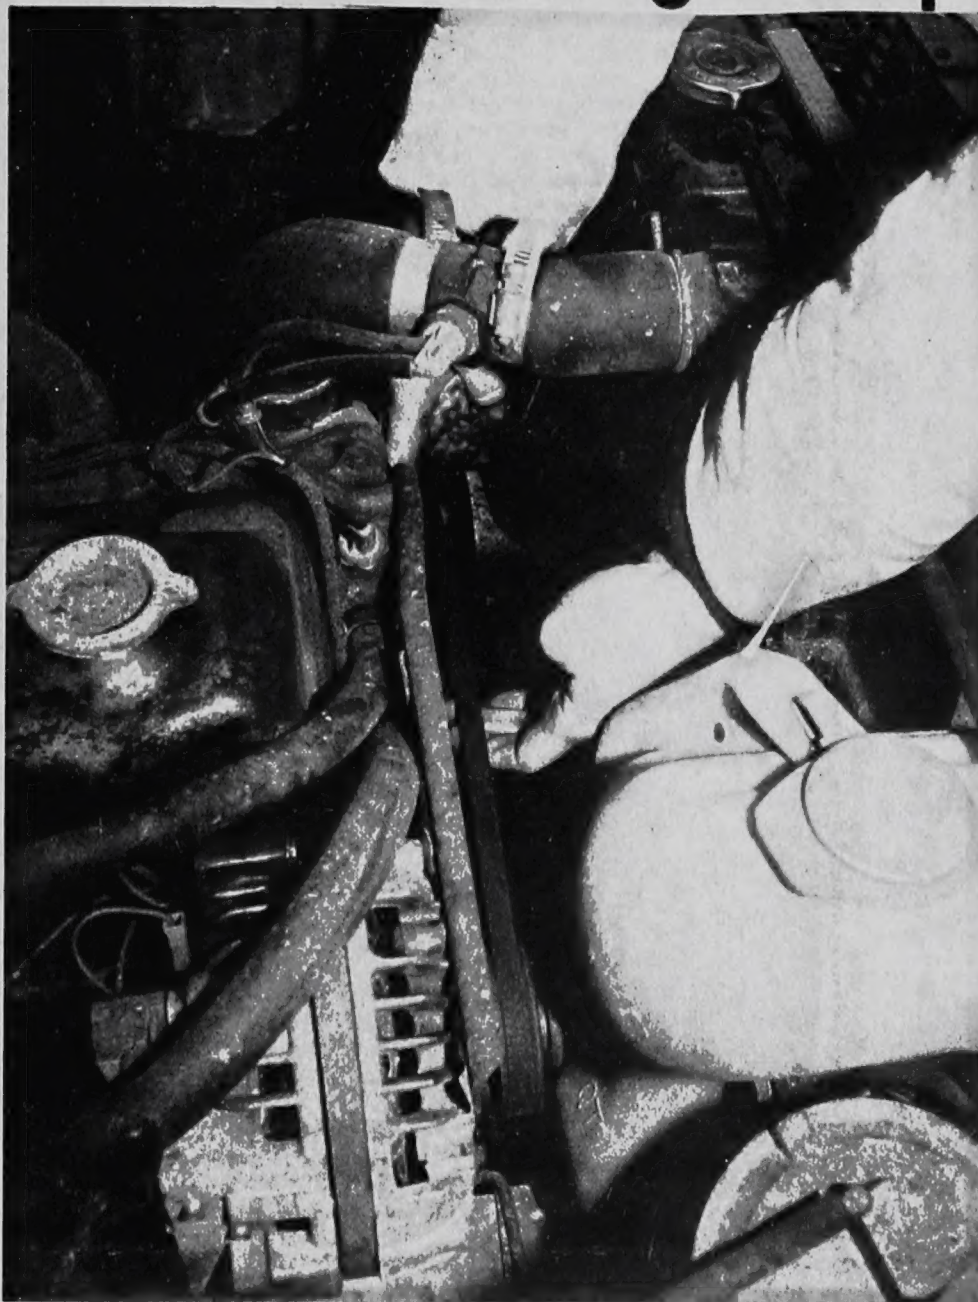

Needs More Voltage

That's why misfiring is first noticed while accelerating because it's here that the plugs actually can require more voltage to produce a spark than the ignition system is capable of producing - especially if the plugs are badly worn.

Remember, as plugs remain in service, more voltage is needed to make them spark. As the ignition system ages, its ability to produce high voltage lessens. If the point is reached where the spark plugs require more voltage to spark than the system can produce the spark plugs misfire.

Changing spark plugs at 10,000 mile intervals prevents this from happening.

Main cooling components should be checked

Avoid overheating, and charging problems by checking the condition of the fan belt. A cracked or worn belt should be replaced. The tension should be set so the belt has 3/4 inch free play.

These are the main components involved in a cooling system tune-up. They should be checked as follows:

1. BELTS. They drive the fan and water pump as well as other engine accessories. Look for frayed, glazed or cracked belt surfaces that might cause the belt to slip or break. If you find one belt worn, look closely at the others. They're probably ready for replacement too.

If the belts look okay, check the tension. A belt should deflect no more than a half-inch to an inch when depressed halfway between the pulleys.

2. HOSES. Squeeze them hard to be sure they are not getting brittle, mushy or otherwise deteriorated. Do this when the engine is cold; your test might cause a bad done.

3. THERMOSTAT. A sticking thermostat will cause too hot or too cold engine operations. You will recognize this by the obvious signs of engine overheating or by little or not heat from the heater. In either case, a new thermostat is needed.

When in doubt, have your mechanic check it for you.

Finally, when you are sure everything is tight and leak proof, you come to the final step in your cooling system tune-up; flushing the system and installing new anti-freeze coolant. If it has been a year or more since you last changed it, drain the old, flush the system with a good chemical cleaner and install a fresh 50/50 solution of permanent anti-freeze, technically known as ethylene glycol.

Prevent expensive breakdown hose to let go, with resultant hot anti-freeze all over you.

A hose of dubious condition should be scrapped, and, as with belts, the failure of one hose may indicate the imminent failure of others. Replace any that look marginal, to prevent the possibility of expensive and inconvenient failure.

Most mechanics replace the clamps when installing new hose. It's a wise investment whether you are a do-it-yourselfer or have it

FILTER - The end of a cigarette.

There are three filters on your car. One helps keep dirt out of the air entering the carburetor, another purifies the oil circulating in the crank-case, and a third traps sediment from the gasoline before it enters your carburetor. These filters need periodic cleaning or changing.

Today's engines are the cleanest

Don't alter controls

There's a lot designed into today's automobile engines that makes them the cleanest ever on the road. But it takes some work on the part of the owner to keep them that way.

The automobile engine provides motorists with a good combination of performance, economy and low emissions, says the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association of the United States, Inc.

"If you attempt to change any one of those functions, it will be done at the detriment of at least one and possibly the other two," says Harry B. Weaver, manager of the Environmental Activities Department for MVMA.

Most of the people who tamper with the engine or emission controls are attempting to get better performance, more "guts and go". Motorists may get the performance boost, but they will pay the penalty of poorer fuel economy and possibly an upsurge in pollutants coming from the tailpipe, Weaver says.

CONTROLS WORK

But there really is no need to tamper with the anti-pollution equipment because today's pollution controls work, they do not hurt performance and they do not hurt fuel economy. In fact, the latest emission equipment has enabled automotive engineers to improve fuel economy.

Motorists who think that tinkering with the engine of their late-model automobile will improve their performance probably remember the early days of anti-pollution equipment, basically adjustment modifications to the engine.

CATALYTIC CONVERTER

The advent of the catalytic converter on most automobiles built since the start of the 1975 model year - a technological revolution - enabled automotive engineers to retune engines to achieve the good combination of fuel economy, performance and clean air.

The catalytic converter actually is a small chemical factory, taking hot exhaust gases, hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide, and passing them through and around platinum and palladium to change noxious gases into carbon dioxide and water.

One of the developments being tested today is the three-way catalytic converter which also helps control emissions of oxides of nitrogen.

Equipment in use today has allowed automakers to reduce the amount of hydrocarbons from today's automobiles by 89 percent from uncontrolled models of 1960 vintage. Carbon monoxide emissions have been cut by 82 percent and nitrogen oxides by 51 percent. Future developments promise even greater reductions.

Loosen the wing nut, lift the lid on the air cleaner and check the condition of the filter. If you can't see the light of a flashlight through the element, replace it. Your mileage will improve.

Dirty filter reduces mileage

Here are some of the things that can go wrong and foul up your car and the air at the same time:

- A clogged air cleaner not only reduces fuel economy because the engine can't get enough air to maintain a proper air-fuel ratio, but the output of carbon monoxide also is greatly increased.
- Misfiring caused by faulty spark plugs or distributor points hurts performance, can cause the catalytic converter to overheat, cuts into fuel economy and lets more unburned hydrocarbons foul the air.

- Faulty timing not only makes a car sluggish or hard starting, but increases pollutants in the exhaust.
- A delay in changing oil and oil filter past manufacturers' recommendations hurts the general efficiency of the engine. A well running engine will last longer and operate at its best for a longer period.

Keeping your car in good working order makes good sense," says MVMA's Weaver. "It's also worth dollars and cents in your pocket."

Tire pressure is important to the stability and traction of the vehicle. Correct pressure levels can be found in the owner's manual on the driver's door post.

Vehicle luxuries affect gas intake

How your car is equipped affects fuel consumption.

- You might want to consider installing a dash mounted vacuum gauge calibrated in fuel economy ranges. Such gauges allow the driver to monitor fuel use and engine condition while driving.
- Such options as air conditioning and - to a lesser extent - even electrical accessories such as heaters, defrosters and radios use more gasoline.
- An automatic transmission can be a gas-using option. Manual transmissions generally use less gas, particularly in small cars, although this may not hold true in situations where frequent shifting is required.
- Power steering also uses a bit more fuel.
- Fuel injection usually saves gasoline by more uniformly and efficiently distributing the fuel than do carburetors.
- Top quality radial tires usually will result in a 5 to 10% fuel saving because rolling resistance is reduced. Steel-belted radials generally are even better than fabric belted radials.
- If you'll be doing a lot of open road driving, a cruise control option may be worthwhile.

Extendicare News

by Dr. W. O. Anderson

This summer Sheila Elston, while shopping in the Acre Garden centre on Don Mills road, spied some rose collars for banking roses for winter, four collars in a packet; and brought a packet that are now being put to use. Passing Vance English's place on our walk and noticing his abundance of fallen maple leaves, we asked what he did with them and it seems he gets a burning permit. Having very few leaves at Extendicare yet, we told him we could use a garbage bag full to bank our rose bushes and he said he would get them for us and he did for which we thank him kindly. In fact, all the people of Haliburton are extraordinarily kind to us, for which we sincerely hope we are worthy. The rose bushes are banked.

It is amazing to us to learn how little, people are informed about how much we owe to the greenery of the summer for all the work they do in providing us with our precious oxygen, for removing the pollutant carbon dioxide from our atmosphere and storing it for our use as fuel or lumber in the years far into the future. We have read many writers on acid rain lately and not one so far believe that the 300,000,000,000 tons annual of carbonic acid or overbly carbon dioxide contribute to the acid rain, yet they know carbonic acid is the exhaust product of living fish or water creatures. Much do we owe to our Almighty for His bounty. Thankyou! Even though we have stated less than half of the real energy or bounty you are bestowing daily and have been for billions of years.

Soon it will be Hallowe'en and we are thinking that there is one prank the Happy Gang would not object to a bit, but as for Extendicare we cannot venture to say, except you may get a 'what for' which would not be nice, - if we found that someone had dumped 2 tons of leaves on our muskmelon patch. We would try to load them down by black plastic, or soil to keep them from blowing off. In the spring they would be squeezed down to a centimeter, but just think of all the muskmelons they would make - a nice trick.

It was bingo again Tuesday afternoon and a nice turnout of helpers - Greta Kellett, Eva Silver, Elizabeth Pearson and Rath Smith and Allan Macklin calling turn about. Some players line up a dozen cards maybe not able to properly 'see' that many and would be no further ahead, or perhaps they can. Thank you

Ohio man wins colour television in church draw

Henry Shultz of Ohio was the winner of a 20-inch colour television in a draw in aid of St. Anthony's Church building fund.

His winning ticket, #1673 was drawn at the bingo held October 23.

Second prize, a hand-made quilt, went to Tracy Salvatori of Haliburton with ticket #2379. Third prize, also a hand-made quilt, was won by Bev Parish of Haliburton with ticket #2855.

all folks including the callers. You may be sure the best man won, even though he be a lady.

Thursday was the day when all the birthdays in the month are gathered together into one, and then Marilyn Stouffer comes along with her fascinating voice and Betty Salvatori a most versatile pianist, who together become the most gracious hosts for our entertainment, easing the burden of finding one is just a year older. This time - Lila Simmons, Walter Fogg, Evelyn Anderson and Noreen Stevens found themselves in that predicament and didn't mind a bit. A snack of chocolate cake with white topping was served along with tea or coffee or juices. In the midst of this, the delivery man brought two dwarf artichokes that we had to plant at once lest we be too lazy to do it later, also four peonies assorted that we left until morning to plant. The artichokes are put in that large rambling space behind where they will be secluded and where there is naturally rich soil from the wash down the hill, while the peonies will be on the front lawn and staked to foil the coons. We must be careful not to get too much and have a clutter since it would be nice to get the Extendicare landscape really beautiful for one summer at the least.

Now Friday we learn that the dwarf artichokes, nicely planted are potentially in the way of servicing one of Extendicare's two wells which means they must come out and further there is no other site on this property where they will not be a clutter. If they are not taken out at once, it may be that some knowledgeable person may be able to show that they will not be in the way of well service, or even further they will certainly not be the first trees to be destroyed by big machines, and besides they are only gads and cannot offer much hindrance to any force.

Pastor the Rev. John Smith of Lakeside Baptist Church in Haliburton led in the devotional period in the morning, Margaret (Syd) Sissons was the pianist. Psalm 116 was read and indicated David's joy in being the one chosen by God to do his work, despite his wickedness and ungodly ways when he was younger. Even though David has no way of knowing the enormous energy God supplies to all creatures he still was joyful and believed God indeed was the Almighty creator, and we know more than did David.

Thanks to Doris Craig who brought and loaned us a 'Flower Book', we have identified another two of the cuttings from the Royal Botanical Gardens of Hamilton as 1. Episcia cygniet and 2. Episcia reptans, both of the same genus we had this spring but which simply died but of which we may get a cutting commonly known around here as chocolate soldier. The other 'gardens' plants are thriving and have even yielded cuttings of their own.

A thing of beauty is a joy forever, a saying that simply couples the words joy and beauty. Haliburton is to be congratulated that a scourge of human habitation has been removed and replaced by beauty. Thus it is a joy to walk along Park Street to beautiful Maple, or Victoria and Pine to Highland. One cannot drive along and see it the same.

The residents of Hyland Crest have had quite a busy and interesting week. A good number of them are keeping their bodies fit at our regular fun and fitness program. The ladies are working hard these days preparing for the annual Christmas bazaar which will be held in our auditorium on November 19.

Monday evening's movies were very interesting indeed. "Figures" told us how Doulton china figures are made.

TSO violinist to play at church concert

Ruth Fazel, a violinist with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra and a composer-guitarist will present a concert of sacred music this Saturday, November 1 at St. George's Anglican Church in Haliburton Village.

The concert is free and open to the public. It begins at 7:30 p.m.

These delicate figurines are all hand-made from original moulds. The lengthy process is the reason that they are so very expensive. Return of the Swans took us to the large bird sanctuary at Aylmer, Ontario. Hundreds of migrating whistling swans stop there every year. Whistling swans are the largest migrating bird, and migrate the farthest of any species. They are named because of the whistling sound caused by the wind going through their feathers in flight. Their determination in migration is a natural wonder. The journey is as important as life itself.

Tuesday morning, Rev. Douglas Miller of Minden United Church held an inspiring service in the chapel. Later in the afternoon several residents gathered in the lounge to play a game of bingo. Ray Jenkins was here in the evening to play some lively tunes on the piano. Our thanks to Ray for entertaining us and we will look forward to his next visit for music night.

Wednesday, a few of our people enjoyed a luncheon at the Wagon Wheel. The luncheon was especially for senior citizens in the area, and will be held on a regular basis. If you are interested in going, please contact Isabella Harrison 286-2566 for more information. Mr. and Mrs. Drysdale, Mr. and Mrs. Bears and Mr. and Mrs. Coleman were here for games night. A good number of residents enjoyed playing euchre, crockinole and checkers.

The ladies of Lutterworth Estates brought lunch for the Thursday tea party. They served sandwiches and a variety of home-made goods. Thanks girls, it was terrific.

Thursday evening, the Kinsmen were here to call bingo in the main lounge. Our residents always look forward to bingo, and winning tokens which they can cash in at the tuck shop. The Hyland Crest Auxiliary staff the tuck shop several times each week. This shop provides incidentals, at a nominal cost to add to the comforts of the residents.

The week's activities ended with Grace Coburn leading the sing song on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Lucille Clarke was here to play the piano for us, and we thoroughly enjoyed the good music.

I would like to welcome Frances and Bob Krick to our home. I sincerely hope they will enjoy their new home with us.

Last but not least, a sincere thankyou to the U.C.W. of Kinsmount for their generous gift of $75 to the residents of Hyland Crest. The money will be used for Christmas festivities.

Home Support News

by Catherine Denholm

The board of the Haliburton County Home Support Services met on October 17 (always the 3rd Friday of the month) in the Dysart Council Chambers with 24 present.

The volunteers in charge of the Meals on Wheels program reported 1353 meals delivered up to September at a cost of $2 per meal.

A very rewarding program which is now in full swing in several parts of the county is the one where volunteers pick up senior citizens who are unable to get away from home, and take them out for a meal and a social afternoon. This program is known as "Wheels to Meals". Volunteers reported on such successful events in the Gelett/Ingoldby/Lochlin/Donald area, Haliburton village area, Minden and Eagle Lake areas.

A sincere thank you from the Home Support Service organization and the seniors of the county goes to the businesses which have provided meals at cost as their contribution to the older people in their communities - to Sunny Rock Lodge at Scott's Dam, Bonnie View Lodge on Kashagawigamog until it closed for the season, and now to Locarna Lodge on the same lake, Wagon Wheel restaurant south of Minden, Extendicare Haliburton, Mr. Fogg's Carnarvon, Sir Sam's Inn, Eagle Lake and Hyland Crest, Minden.

Mrs. Thorne of the Haliburton Senior Citizens Apartments had informed the Support Services of their wish for postal boxes near their building to avoid the dangerous winter walks for mail. They received full support from the Haliburton Post Office in this regard, but legislation prevents such a change. The Support Services have been in touch with provincial and federal representatives. Letters of reply were read which were encouraging.

A Directory of Community Services will be available soon. A special section for seniors will be distributed through the senior clubs in the county and will also be available at the office (upstairs in the Dysart Municipal Building in Haliburton Village). This section will contain information on Haliburton County Home Support Services, government programs for seniors, senior citizens' clubs, and seniors' institutional homes.

The recent survey which was made of all senior citizens in Haliburton County is being processed: 70% of the letters were returned. The answers received from the West Guilford/Maple Lake/Eagle Lake area contained many requests for a bus service to Haliburton Village once a week. The arrangements for this service are now complete. If the bus is full, the charge will be $2 return (9:30 a.m. - 2:00 p.m.). Anyone interested, contact Joy Fielding 754-2178 West Guilford; Emily Schroter 754-2718 Eagle Lake; and Ev Stata 754-2204 Maple Lake. The Royal Canadian Legion have very kindly offered a room as a rest center for the day the bus will run, and a volunteer will be there with coffee and tea.

The purpose of the Haliburton Home Support Service is, of course, to implement programs to enable the elderly to remain independent in their own homes for a longer period of time. If anyone is aware of someone needing this help, please call the office - 457-2951; either Marie Wallace, the co-ordinator, or Nancy Picard, secretary, will see that help is available.

On Monday October 6, bingo players decided by a positive show of hands, to hold a "Thanksgiving bingo". Special prizes were donated by Mrs. Peggy Whitney consisting of carrots, squash, beet, apples and a large pumpkin. The "Snowball" has now risen to over $100 and waiting to be won in 21 numbers.

The first "pot luck" luncheon sponsored by the Golden Age Club was held on Tuesday, October 14 at 12:30 p.m. at the centre. Between 40 and 50 people attended, mostly seniors, but it is stressed that all members of the community are welcome, particularly newcomers. The most popular dessert served was a lemon meringue pie - it disappeared in a "flash". After lunch, cards, crokinole and cribbage were in evidence.

Mrs. Doris McCann, Chairman of the County

Home Support Services announced at the lunch that shortly, on Thursday bus service will be in effect. This is a direct result of answers received to questionnaires mailed to seniors earlier in the year. The bus service will run from 9:30 a.m. with return trip leaving Haliburton at 2 p.m. Cost is $2 return. The tentative route: Eagle Lake to West Guilford, North Shore Road (Green Lake area, Maple Lake, St. Peter's Road to 530 to Haliburton. Mrs. McCann hopes to persuade the Canadian Legion to "open their doors" for weary shoppers to rest until the return bus arrives. This transportation facility is a great step forward for folk who have had to rely in the past on neighbours, friends and taxis.

The next pot luck lunch will be held on Tuesday, November 18 instead of November 11, Armistice Day.

The monthly dances held at the centre are the most popular and well-attended "happening". October 18 was no exception, with music provided by the Tearsie Trio whose professionalism was outstanding. They are so much in demand that they will be unable to make a return visit until March 1981.

The draw for the quilt was made and the lucky winner was Kathy Crawford of Ingoldsby, who had bought the last ticket sold by Heather Harrington before she left for Calgary.

A craft class was initiated Wednesday morning October 22, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. The greatest demand was for instruction in basket weaving, capably demonstrated by Arlene Edwards. Xmas decorations were displayed by Kim Stamp and Valerie Chumley, and macramé by Delaine Sawyers. (A baby-sitting service is available at a cost of 50 cents). Requests for instruction in crochet and basic and advanced sewing are being considered for 1981.

On a different note, an article in a recent Globe and Mail headed "Proposals invited on television in remote Schell said he had been called to the park by the OPP when the damage was discovered. He told council he had spoken with the parents of the juveniles and they had agreed to pay for the damages.

Instead of charging the juveniles with vandalism council agreed with Schell that working for the township would be a better punishment.

Hydro surveyed a total of 5,370 customers, selected at random, and found only seven that could be identified as possible thefts. In three of these cases, flat-rate water heater elements had been changed, and in another, a temporary connection had been overlooked.

system. The bulk power rates to the three customer groups vary according to their respective demands, energy usage and supply conditions.

Hydro's rural distribution unit acts as a retailer to 770,000 rural customers served directly by Ontario Hydro. The 1981 rural rates have been approved, necessitating an 11.2 percent increase to cover the 9.9 percent increase in the bulk power rate and additional rural distribution costs.

A rural residential customer using 1,000 kilowatt-hours a month and currently paying an average of $42.63 will face a monthly increase of about $4.96 in 1981.

Earlier this year, at the request of Ontario Premier William Davis, made through the Minister of Energy, Ontario Hydro began a study on ways of narrowing the gap between the rural residential retail rates and those charged municipal utility residential customers. Average rural rates are currently 27 percent higher, mainly because of higher costs in building and maintaining the rural distribution system, which, on average, serves fewer customers per mile than the municipal utilities.

Isn't it amazing how fast Christmas rolls around? With the weather we've had this last weekend it seems even closer than ever. Plans are underway for our 1980 Christmas Exhibition and Sale, December 2 to 20 at the Raily's End Gallery. Guild members will be receiving their exhibition forms this week with their newsletter.

We hope to have a bigger show this year, with lots of items. Since it is a Christmas show we are especially interested in seeing more Christmas decorations for sale, ones that we could display on our tree. This is an exciting time at the Gallery and if you would like to participate by volunteering your help please call Debbie at the Gallery 457-2330.

The "Wearable Weaving" show is coming to an end so if you haven't seen this impressive show consisting of works by our own as well as guest weavers, do so this week as the show closes October 31.

As part of the wearable weaving show two special one-day workshops were held.

Women's Programs
Wig-a-mog Inn was the site of Women's Programs second evening of dinner speakers. Guest speaker was Constance Willinston, Minister of the Anglican Church of Canada. Her topic was "Guilt about working mothers, marriage breakdown and changing family roles".

Constance Willinston spoke and encouraged a lively discussion amongst the 36 women who attended the meeting.

CURRENT HIGHWAY STUDY

Secondary Highway 507
from 4.2 km. South of Highway 503 Southerly 7.1 km

The Ministry of Transportation and Communications has initiated a study to examine potential improvements to Secondary Highway 507, W.P. 12-67-02, District 10 - Bancroft.

The subject of this study is the section of Secondary Highway 507 which extends from 4.2 km south of Highway 503 southerly 7.1 kilometres.

Subject to the final outcome of the study, the Ministry is currently proposing:

Horizontal and vertical realignment, cross-section widening, increased sight distances, drainage improvements, and improvements to entrances and sideroad intersections.

This study will follow a planning process which has been approved under the Environmental Assessment Act, 1975. This approval requires that an Environmental Study Report be filed with the Ministry of the Environment (MOE) prior to construction. Public notification of the availability of this report will be made at the time it is sent to MOE. The approval also provides for any member of the public, public group, other Ministry, agency, or municipality to request that an individual environmental assessment be prepared for this project if serious environment concerns exist. Where these concerns are deemed significant by MTC and/or MOE, then the environmental assessment would be subject to a formal review and approval process and be subject to a hearing where necessary.

We are interested in hearing any comments or concerns you or your group may have about this project. If you wish to be involved in this study or receive further information, please contact us. Any further notification by MTC shall only be provided to those who have expressed an interest in being further involved.

DISTRICT NEWS

Stanhope Notes

by Alex Stevenson

When asked if there were any matters of importance to be pursued by the incoming 1981-1982 council, the present members had the following thoughts on the subjects which might be considered.

Reeve Harrison: Work to maintain efficiency and harmony within the fire department. Continued upgrading of the roads and thus reducing maintenance costs. Proper handling of sixty-six foot lakeshore allowances. Continue to seek grants for the Home Renewal Program. Strive for a clean environment and continue to keep council informed on matters affecting the environment. Recreation must be given continued support in the township by improving, where feasible, existing facilities. Provision of adequate services while striving to contain expenditures. Keeping the Township of Stanhope completely free of debenture debt.

Deputy Reeve Stuffer: Employment opportunities for the young people in the township is a matter of some concern. Improvement of forest management could result in a dramatic increase in revenues for this source. Steps in this direction could result in improved employment opportunities, with benefit to the community. Voluntary efforts in this municipality have been very productive in enriching the life of the township and these groups of community-minded citizens should be given every reasonable encouragement. It can be said that these voluntary workers are providing a high level of assistance and could be considered as perhaps our most valuable asset.

Councilman Elvin Johnson: A closer look should be taken at the costs of transferring the 66 foot allowance. "I believe they are higher than necessary," he said. Positive action should be taken by environment agencies to check all shoreline sewage systems. Completion of an equipped playground is a must as is expansion of the park at the Halls Lake swim area.

Councilman Davis: Keeping the budget at a reasonable level without creating an undue burden on the taxpayers, keeping in mind an increasing number of retirement people and a declining enrolment in our school system. "We could possibly look more closely at programmes for our senior citizens, determining the needs that lie in the years ahead. I would like to see some way of encouraging local young people to upgrade their education in the field of skilled trades. With regard to recreation, I would like to see a drive made to install lights at the tennis courts."

Mrs. Penny Googh who, along with Ann Barker and Dale MacDonald, is a newcomer to the councilmanic elections, states that she believes that improvement of Stanhope roads would be a benefit to the tourist industry and thus strengthen the local economy. She would encourage support for attracting industry to the township, but would strive to prevent any pollution of the environment. Mrs. Googh would also support measures to preserve the old council chamber, and try to make available reminders of Stanhope's past.

A discussion with Ann Barker brought out some concerns which she has re-municipal affairs. She was emphatic in stating that there should be no undertakings which would result in a municipal debenture debt, but felt that there should be a planned program for development which would make use of annual budgeting and current ability to pay. She also was of the opinion that some shoreline sewage systems were a matter of concern

You learned all about the up-coming bazaar being sponsored by the Monmouth Senior Citizen group in last week's column but we forgot to give you the date. It is being held on Saturday, November 1, at the Memorial Centre, starting at 1 p.m. You will have a chance to meet old friends and neighbours and purchase hand-crafted gifts for Christmas presents.

This is the time of year that the weekly senior citizens meetings return to their afternoon schedule. Beginning this week meetings will be held every Tuesday afternoon at 12:30 p.m. in the Memorial Centre. There is a good program lined up for the winter months and a warm welcome awaits new members.

Here is something you won't want to miss. A turkey supper is being sponsored by the best cooks in the country. Ladies of the United Church from the full Charge of Tory Hill, Gooderham, Wilberforce and Tory Hill, are working together to make this the finest meal of the year. The supper will be served in the Highland Grove United Church building. Beginning at 4:30 it will continue until 7:30. Tickets will be $4 for adults, $2 for those under 12 with no charge for preschoolers. Advance tickets and information may be obtained from Mrs. Bradley at 448-2124 and from Mrs. Alma Noble at 448-2173. The date for this event is November 8.

Snow flurries are an unwelcome sight when we are still looking for Indian summer weather. Probably the children are delighted with them. However, preparations are now underway for winter sports. Ice is being installed at this time in the curling rink and this procedure will take place in the arena on November 30. The popular winter sports of curling and skating will be available in the near future.

A coming event of interest is the hunter's turkey roll that takes place in the Legion Hall on November 5. A lunch will be served during the evening.

It's election time again with a chance to meet the people who will be running your municipality for the next two years. On Thursday, October 30 at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Centre there will be a Meet the Candidate meeting. Having lost the services of two good councilmen, namely Mary Barker and Margaret Finlay, these must be replaced. Three councilmembers are needed and four good men are looking for your vote.

These four are Barry Dunford of Tory Hill, Al Revell, Harry Clark, and Reg Schofield of Wilberforce. We need a representative for the school board and we have a choice of Buster Anderson of Tory Hill or Jean Thomas of Wilberforce. Reeve Keith Tallman and Deputy Reeve Caman Coumbs have been re-instated through acclamation. They will be on hand to greet you and to answer questions.

On the right, Karen Bannister and her son, Kent, of Haliburton enjoyed the exhibits in the Canadian National Museum's exhibit of the Canadian North. A brief tour through the portable museum highlighted the Eskimo days before the explorers discovered them up until the present day when pipelines are being laid and new building techniques to prevent damage from the permafrost are being experimented with. Above, the life-like animal from the north was one of the many on display. Pelts of oxen, mink, ermine, wolf, fox and many others were also on display. The exhibits also explained many of the habits and the ways of life of the Eskimos and other northern natives.

Another summer has come and gone. I hope yours was a healthy, happy and productive one as it was for me. We are now approaching municipal election time with our local candidates hoping for your votes. Apparently rumour has it that the Wilberforce school is to be closed, but I have recently talked with our local school trustee who informs me no such thing is true. I feel it's bad that people cannot sacrifice one phone call to confirm these kinds of rumours and there would be a lot less gossiping and unhappy people.

We have our trustee and also our director of education who would be more than happy, I'm sure, to answer your questions.

Over the summer Hewbert and Irma Dunford had their usual houseful of family and friends on the weekends.

Warren and Lettie Mitchell have had as their guests last week Goldie Boyce of Aurora and Marion Short of Toronto. It was nice to see them back again.

Wally and Ruth Marks had quite a houseful over Thanksgiving with all their family home.

Congratulations to Howard and Suzanne Anderson on the arrival of their wee baby boy weighing in at 5 lbs. 5 oz. Michelle is happy to have a brother.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Grant McCrea who were married on October 17 in Guelph, Ontario. Welcome to our community Agnes. Attending the wedding were Ron and Irma Dack and Ken and Joan Noble and Charlie and Edith Hall.

The Foster store has been closed for the winter months. We hope you soon will feel rested Pearl.

Dorothy and Howard Brooking have returned from a trip through the U.S.A. Betty and Dill Langly visited with Betty's mother, Mrs. Brooking recently.

The Anderson family had a houseful over the holiday weekend. John and Helen Uptergrove of Niagara-on-the-Lake and Nancy and friend Neil Iddon of Trent University and Jordi Ollan of Regina, Sask. Over the summer friends and relatives from England have visited also.

Margaret Finlay, John and Shirley and Lisa, Lesley and Eric and Alex, visited in Victoria, B.C. with Margaret's dad who was celebrating his 83rd birthday. Hope you had a good time folks.

Our sympathy goes to the family of the late Reuben Switzer, and to the families in the area who have lost loved ones over the summer.

The Sunday school held their picnic during the summer. The children reported a good time with lots of treats and prizes.

The Art Majoy family have had their boys home periodically from Hamilton and Steve of Alberta was home also.

Some of us had the privilege of attending the friendship night held by the senior citizens awhile back and we had a very enjoyable evening.

Les and Gladys Haas had their family from Buffalo, N.Y. visiting during the summer, as well as the Ridells from Peterborough. Gloria and Gladys and Les were also in the U.S.A. for two weeks this year.

Arnold and Shirley Stamp have had their family visiting during the summer. They also attended the funeral of Arnold's brother-in-law at Kapuskasing a couple months ago.

Clem and Mary Boyd were visiting their daughter and son-in-law, Della and Gord in Guelph last week. They also attended the wedding of their son, Dwight and Krestin in Warkworth, Ontario recently. Their daughter, Jean from Vancouver also attended.

Hunting seasons have really been a mixed up dish this year. We have reports of some moose being gotten around the area.

Our colour this fall was not tops and was only colourful for a short while. I noticed a lot of people stopping down along the highway taking pictures across the lake of the hill and the reflections in the water which was a masterpiece in itself.

Someone who has spent quite a few summer holidays were Orch and Jean Anderson and family of Ottawa at their cottage on Lake Lor-

Mr. Russel Raby and his wife, Edith, of Buffalo, visited Mrs. Lulu Dovel last week. Russel is the son of Clarence Raby, a brother of Mrs. Dovel.

The Friendship Circle met at the home of Mrs. Aldridge Hunter last Tuesday night. A social time was enjoyed. At the next meeting, the names of the secret pals will be divulged and Christmas gifts exchanged.

We are sorry to learn that Gordon Yewmans had the misfortune to fall, breaking his leg and suffering other painful injuries. Best wishes are extended that he may soon feel more comfortable and regain good health speedily.

The Tory Hill Pastoral

Charge are sponsoring a turkey supper at Highland Grove United Church on November 8 from 4:30 - till all are served. Admission is $4.00 for adults. According to past records you are assured of a delicious meal.

Visitors of Mrs. Grace Billings included her sister Rita and husband Lorne

Bailey of Fenelon Falls; Jack and Marge Cameron of Elora; Roy Dear, his wife Jean and children Joyce and Bruce of Niagara Falls; Clinton Switzer of Bobcaygeon; Belle and Bill Grylls of Whitby, also Pete and Pam McCormick and Lori of Whitby. Grace's brother Allan, with his wife Mamie of Belleville are holidaying for the weekend with their sister.

It is reported that some of the local hunters have been lucky in getting their count of moose in this area the past week.

Mrs. Grace Billings was a visitor of Mrs. Palk in Fenelon Falls last week.

Chatting with Irene

by Irene Moore

One knows it will come soon, but one keeps hoping it won't be today or tomorrow but later on; then to wake up some morning and look out to see the ground covered with that white stuff gives one a shock. It is now here and where did one put their winter boots and let me see now where did I pack my winter coat? Oh yes, I'll need those winter gloves and a hat, but where were they all put? The old saying is so true. "Never put off until tomorrow what you should do today."

There are four birthdays at Hyland Crest Home for November. Edith Allcown, 8th; Gladys Dennis, 10th; Olive Tyler, 14th; Jessie Walter, 21st. Cards make a lovely birthday gift for they let the people know they are not forgotten.

Many friends and relatives from Minden area attended a house warming at the Dale Coulter home at Bracebridge over the weekend.

On November 4 the Minden and District Horticultural Society will be holding their pot luck supper at Minden United Church Hall at 6:30 p.m. Please bring your own cutlery and dishes. All members are welcome.

November 5 is the Minden U.C.W. meeting at 7:30 p.m. Election of officers will take place. Speaker will be Dr. Agnes Jamieson. This is a Cont'd. page 16

for those interested in the maintenance of the water quality of our lakes. She made it clear that she was on the side of the people who were anti-pollutionists. Another subject of some considerable concern was that of looking forward to needs of a substantial senior citizen population. It is her opinion that most of the seniors are self-sustaining but the township will need to give consideration to some amenities of life for this segment of the population. At the other end of the age spectrum, the candidate saw a need for Stanhope Township to support every effort to encourage light clean industry to locate in Haliburton County, since the more such industry was established in this area, the better the employment opportunities would be for our own young people coming on to the labour market. Among the other considerations Ann has are those related to tourism, and on this point she feels that the township has done what lies within its means in encouraging this part of the community's life, but any opportunity to encourage this industry should be taken advantage of by the township.

Candidate Dale MacDonald indicated that he was concerned with the costs involved in transferring the 66-foot rights of way, but is also desirous of a clearer definition of this whole subject. Dale, who is one of the members of the fire department who is always available for day time duty, has an interest in a dependable and efficient fire protection service for the township and this will be a definite focus of interest for him should he be elected to council.

We have indicated the thoughts of the candidates for election to council and now we would like to offer a few thoughts of our own. First we would publicly state our appreciation of the letter written by Mrs. Dorothy Kinsman to the papers, October 15, re Terry Fox and his wonderfully inspiring action for a cause he believed in. We think her letter said for all of us, what we may have had a hard time putting together ourselves.

Stanhope firefighters again demonstrated their community spirit and dedication when a fire call was received at 5:40 a.m. Tuesday, October 21. A cottage was already burning furiously on the south-west part of Kushog Lake. Within 15 minutes the equipment was on the site, but since the house was already doomed all the firemen could do was extinguish the fire. The remarkable thing about this event was that, at this early hour when many of the firemen were preparing to go to work, 16 firefighters responded to the call. The equipment returned to the firehall at 7:45 a.m. The department deserves to be commended for an excellent response, both time-wise and numerically.

Coboconk News

by Shiela Lake

Mrs. Wendy Handley was admitted to Sick Children's Hospital last Wednesday. How about a card of cheer to Wendy, now in Toronto to let her know you think of her? Wendy has suffered from Cystic Fibrosis for many years and we all know C.F. is a scary disease. She needs to be remembered in your prayers and I know would appreciate hearing from you! Her father-in-law, Max Handley was in Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay but is now home.

The Philip Bryants of Norland lost a wee premature baby last week in Toronto. Our sympathy to the young couple on the loss of their anticipated new baby.

Mr. Adam Lutz is home again after treatment in Doctors Hospital in Toronto.

The second meeting of the newly formed Avon Collectors Club was held at the home of Mrs. Arkwright on Tuesday night. Next meeting is the third Tuesday of November. If you are a collector, come on out and learn about trades, very old collectibles, etc.

The family of Gertie Sheldon held a big birthday celebration at the home of her niece, Joan Gillette last weekend. Gertie celebrated her 84th birthday and though crippled is a very alert, active lady. Congratulations Gertie!

October 22 this year won't be soon forgotten as it was our 33rd anniversary. To start the day at shortly past 5 a.m. I had put a small amount of paper in the wood stove and two small pieces of kindling. I had opened the drafts but did not light the stove. The poodle wanted out and while I was outdoors I decided to carry the garbage around to the front for pickup. A few minutes later on coming in the house I realized the pipes were on fire. I immediately shut off drafts, threw water in stove, then soda. All to no avail! Since hubby was almost a mile up the road at the barn, I had to phone the ever reliable Bexley Fire Department. They arrived shortly, about 20 to 6 a.m. and luckily did not need hoses or water. My early attempts at controlling the fire, etc. plus the fact that most of the soot or whatever was mainly burned meant the biggest danger was past. Mr. Spry checked the attic in case the chimney had burned, etc. but luckily it was O.K. The two pieces of kindling remained in stove long after the fire was out, etc. since they did not burn. How thankful we were for fire protection and their quick response because it could have been a real disaster. I've always had a fear of fire since I well remember our farm home burning to the ground in February when I was a child. I still feel wood is safer than propane and oil and it was a freak thing to happen. I guess an old spark ignited the bit of paper and I had stepped outside momentarily. Sorry I got so many firemen out of bed at such an early hour.

That was the bad part of the day. On a cheery note, a long distance call from my pen pal in Bluffton, Indiana about noon, and our half-hour visit via phone, made my day! Oh well, every day can't be a good day.

Mrs. Linda Kydd and Kim of Lindsay, visited Mrs. Mary Limrick last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Frolick and Clara were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Peyton at Manchester.

Since travel plans were changed, Lillie Pentrose did not leave for California the week before. On Wednesday, she and sister Alma Hunt of Fenelon Falls came to visit Mrs. A. Marles. Several of the other family cousins of these two ladies met and all enjoyed dinner together. They were: Russell and Pearl Brohm of Norland, Charlie Brohm of Miners Bay, Rod and Maggie Cameron and Myrtle and Ross Faulkner of town.

Most of the moose hunters from here were not all that lucky. One fellow - no name mentioned! - a good canoeist, had the misfortune to upset and lost an expensive new gun to boot. Oh well, maybe next summer when water is warm he can go diving up there in the Kapuskasing area and retrieve that gun. At least, he was one of the luckier ones who did shoot a couple of moose.

We paid our respects at the Monk Funeral Home in Minden last night where the late Pat Taylor rested. Pat was a well-known Kinmount business man and we have known Pat for many years. Our sympathy to Betty and her family. Kinmount will miss his cheery smile as he would always rush out to serve gas to his many customers.

Next weekend is Halloween. I hope you welcome the little folks as I'm sure you will. I don't think we have any readers who would offer children "goodies" that have harmful contents. Little tots are all excited on Halloween and that's the way it should be when we realize that there are so many cruel and harsh things in this world and as adults in later years, they will have the very same problems we have now.

"All government programs have three things in common; the beginning, the middle and the end."

On Wednesday last Charles Knapp gave a demonstration on the procedure of working with stained glass at the Dorset Senior Club. There were 16 members present and six guests. Most of those present thought that it would be a very interesting hobby and a class in the art is contemplated for some time after the first of the year.

very important meeting. Please plan to attend.

The October meeting of the Minden Red Cross Branch was held at the home of Dr. Jeff and Marion Lodenquai. Twenty-five members were present to enjoy a dinner prior to the meeting.

You find yourself refreshed by the presence of cheerful people. Why not make an earnest effort to confer that pleasure on others?

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Moore and family of Windsor have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Gary Brown.

After Mrs. Percy Drysdale told me about her white Easter cactus being in flower I checked my cacti and two of the so-called Easter ones have small buds on them but no sign of buds on the Christmas one. Even the plants are mixed up this year.

Minden Minor Hockey are holding a masquerade dance at the community centre this Saturday evening, November 1, starting at 8:30 p.m. Come dance to the music of Tommy Williamson, D.J. Advance tickets on sale $10.00 per couple and the door prize is a $50 bill.

Winners at the mini card party last Thursday were, cribbage - Gladys Wruth, Jeanne Sears. Euchre - Ione hands, Ada Turrell; Shirley Elcome and Mary McKelvey. St. Paul's Anglican Church on holding their annual turkey dinner on November 5, from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Parish Hall. Come early and avoid the rush.

Those who won Wintario toques last week at the following stores and restaurants were - Stedmans - Peter Walker; Mae's Country Mart - C. Summers; Drug Store - Len Lonsberry; Mike's Milk - Murray Hewitt; and the Brown Owl - Anna Kunkel.

It seems to me most people don't try to decide what's right - they just try to guess what other people think is right.

"Jazzy Franks and Beans" - 4 slices bacon; 4 frankfurters sliced crosswise 1/2 inch thick; 1 - 16 oz. can beans in tomato sauce; 1/4 cup catsup; 2 tbsp. brown sugar; 2 tbsp. molasses. Fry bacon until crisp, save 2 tbsp. drippings, drain bacon on paper towels and crumble. In 1 1/2 qt. casserole stir crumbled bacon, drippings, and remaining ingredients until well combined. Bake covered in 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. Serves 4.

37 persons attended the senior citizens luncheon at the Wagon Wheel on October 22. This was the first "Meals to Wheels" for Minden and District under the auspices of the Haliburton County Home Support Service. Mrs. Jennings, their gracious hostess, welcomed them to their meal and everyone enjoyed the social time very much and left hoping that there would be many more. When I asked who was considered a senior I was told that anyone with a car who would take a shut-in or senior citizen was welcome to go to these luncheons which are planned over the winter.

To be content, look backward on those who possess less than yourself, not forward on those who possess more. If this does not make you content, then you don't deserve to be happy.

The Victoria East District Women's Institute held their craft day at Fenelon Falls on the afternoon of October 22. Nine members of Minden branch were there to help with the tea, craft display and bake sale.

During the afternoon there were demonstrations in weaving; Indian crafts by Yvonne Beaucage; cake decorating; and cookies for Christmas. All 11 branches had good displays and there was a large crowd in attendance.

Mrs. D. A. Scott made the draw for the decorated cake.

Happy birthday was wished Vera Cowen of the Minden branch, and as the saying goes, "A good time was had by all."

It is coming near time for election. The advance polls in ize they were stealing," said Jim Farrell, Manager of Rur-Service. "We certainly have no intention of prosecuting in these instances."

In three other cases, however, the meter had been deliberately bypassed and charges will be laid, he said.

but the driver was identified through a licence number recorded by a witness.

Police say charges may be laid against 20-year old Robert Hall of Scarborough once an interview has been completed.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $600. Estimates of damage to the wall and the ice making machinery, some of which was displaced by the impact, have not yet been confirmed, but could run as high as $5000.

The machinery has continued to function without interruption since the incident occurred October 11.

Minden are at the fire hall on November 1 and November 8 from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. The regular poll is November 10 at Hyland Crest Home, time 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Adios and take care now.

"This survey tells us that only about one rural customer in 1,800 may be deliberately stealing from us," Farrell said.

The study found that the estimated value of the power stolen, if continued to the end of the year, would amount to about 0.036 percent of the total rural revenue of $511 million for this year.

The researchers recommend that existing methods of discouraging theft continue to be "vigorously pursued" and that offenders be prosecuted.

From the Chamber

Haliburton Arena Auditorium 7:00 p.m.
Advance polls are to be held Saturday, November 1st from 9:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.
Remember - "If You Don't Vote - You Don't Count".

Advertising Deadline Extended

The Chamber's marketing campaign for this year has been meeting with enthusiastic support from all the members we have talked with, but we are behind schedule somewhat in reaching everyone. For that reason we have extended the deadline and Dave Chatfield will be assisting us in a seven week blitz to make sure all of you are included in this excellent program. We should be in to see you within that time -- but don't take a chance -- phone our office at 286-1760 and leave a message that you don't want to be missed on this one!

Kind thoughts and best wishes are extended to Mrs. Bathurst and Miss Mary Lockman who are patients in Huntsville Hospital.

A shopping trip by bus is being planned for November 13 to Barrie. So if you want to do Christmas shopping here is your chance. This is open to everyone but we have to have confirmation immediately in order to make arrangements. If you are interested please call Mrs. Weatherell at 766-2620.

We are happy to report that Mrs. Phyllis McKay is recuperating nicely after spending some time in Soldier's Memorial Hospital in Orillia. She is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Steven Tebb, Huntsville, until she regains her strength.

Don't forget the Anglican ladies rummage sale on Tuesday, November 4, at 7 p.m. in the Sunday School room. And be sure and call if you have any rummage to donate, 766-2237.

The moose hunters have been out in full force for the past week but we haven't heard of any astounding kills. However, maybe we don't get all the news. Next come the deer and I guess the men are hoping for some snow, as it makes them easier to track. I'm afraid they may get their wish, but most of us could do without the snow until Christmas, at least.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the family of Peter Wilgosh who passed away suddenly on Wednesday, October 22.

strip on their costumes. Watch that those masks don't cover their eyes or mouth and warn them about eating before they get home. We'd like to see them around for a few more Halloween'ers.

Bill and I spent Friday in Lindsay and Peterborough. Both places were busy. In Lindsay we met a number of Kinmount people and in Peterborough it was strictly a medical call. I met a Dr. Lan this trip, a very congenial young man and intelligent too - he said I didn't look my age!

Try dipping a clean sponge in water, wrapping it in a small terrycloth towel and putting it straight into the freezer. Nothing works as well or so quickly when you need an ice pack in a hurry.

Here's another quickie for your recipe book: Chocolate Peanut Clusters: 1/2 lb. sweet or semi-sweet chocolate, 2/3 cup (1/2 of a 15 oz. can) Eagle Brand milk, 1 cup whole peanuts or raisins. Melt chocolate in top of double boiler over hot water. Remove from heat. Add milk and peanuts or raisins and mix well. Drop by teaspoon onto buttered baking sheet or waxed paper, chill for several hours before serving.

I hear Maggie Kylie is away at the home of her son this week.

I will let you know about our big fall turkey dinner, which will be a thing of the past for another year, next week.

Having been away on Friday my column is shorter this week as I probably missed a few calls. Sorry about that folks. 'Til next week, stay well and happy. Have a nice day - 488-2399.
